

GENERAL PERSHING has done well to call a halt to the competition of mere localism in erecting American war memorials in France. Unless the harmonies of good taste are observed, these well-meant tributes might easily defeat their own purpose. What was intended in America as a symbol of grateful remembrance might look, in its final location, like intrusive display.

Good taste is, after all, a matter of proportion. It is seeing through the other fellow's eyes. If a locality, at home, wishes to express its local pride by a local monument, that is good taste, because it is fitted to its place. The same thing, set up elsewhere, especially in a scramble of a thousand communities to do likewise, might be an egregious misfit. So American monuments in France must be related to each other, and the whole group must be related to its surroundings in a unified plan.

There are twenty French graves in those fields to every American one. If we so revere our dead that we are ready to rear more monuments to our one than the French can place for their twenty, the place for our extra memorials is not in France. If a hundred historic French battles have been fought on a certain field and only one American one, the American battle is the one for us to remember, but in whatever we set up in France we must realize that the spectator on the spot will recall the hundred French battles also. To cover it all with carved inscriptions to our one would be to risk handing ourselves down to posterity like amneses II of Egypt. Rameses, that his name, face and figure might be remembered, set up granite statues of himself all over Egypt, while rows of them in a single temple. His successors knocked the heads off of most of them, but there are some left intact, and Rameses had his reward. He is remembered. But he is remembered for his boastings, rather than for the real achievements of which he boasted. We do not wish to obscure the deeds of our heroes in that spirit. The American commission will provide worthy and appropriate memorials on the historic fields of the war and at the resting places of our dead. But it will be done fittingly considering the wide view of their present setting and the long view of the generations who shall see them.

African Tribesmen Reject Terms Offered in Conference by French, Spanish

PARLEY WITH RIFFS ENDS IN COLLAPSE

READY TO CARRY ON
Allies to Continue Fight On Rebels in Determined Effort to Subdue Enemy

(By United Press)
OUJDJA, Morocco, May 6.—War will be resumed in Morocco tomorrow morning, it was announced today, following the collapse of peace negotiations between the Rifians and plenipotentiaries representing the Franco-Spanish allies.

The Rifian delegates were to leave here this afternoon.

The Rifians rejected most of the allied peace terms in the final brief session, which concluded almost three weeks of negotiations. The Rifian delegates will be taken to the Riff coast aboard a French torpedo boat.

Rupture Is Inevitable
The three principal negotiators met first and soon afterward the entire delegations were invited into the conference room. It soon became evident that a rupture was inevitable.

Collapse of the peace negotiations was borne out by the Rifians with complacent resignation.

"Nobody in the Riff understands the Franco-Spanish ultimatum," said Capt. Haddou, speaker for the other Rifians.

"There should not be so much hurry. If we do not sign peace this year, we will next year. We must accept these things with resignation."

Differ Over Prisoners

The Rifians announced they would not release French and Spanish prisoners held in the Riff until Rifian prisoners were released by the allies.

Rupture of the negotiations indicated that there would be another summer of fighting in Morocco, during which the allies would seek to crush the rebel tribesmen.

AIRSHIP RESUMES NORTHERN FLIGHT

OSLO, Norway, May 6.—The Amundsen-Ellsworth polar dirigible Norge is off for King's Bay, Spitzbergen, whence she will attempt to fly across the north pole, according to a dispatch received today from Vadsoe. The Norge paused at Vadsoe, enroute from Leningrad to King's Bay. She had been scheduled to leave Vadsoe this afternoon.

DIRIGIBLE LANDS TO REPLENISH FUEL

VADSOE, Norway, May 6.—The dirigible Norge, enroute from Leningrad to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, where the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition is to begin its flight across the north pole, landed at Vadsoe to refuel at 5:50 a.m. today.

Polar Airplane Alaskan Wrecked

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 6.—The airplane Alaskan, last hope of the Wilkins Polar expedition, was wrecked today, perhaps beyond repair, on an attempted take-off for Point Barrow, from which outpost a flight over the north pole was to be attempted.

MOB STONES BUS.

CLOWNE, Derbyshire, May 6.—A strike mob today stoned a suburban bus near here, slightly injuring the driver.

BISHOPS CONSIDER BAN ON CHURCH MARRIAGE CEREMONY

(By United Press)
LONG BEACH, May 6.—Episcopal clergymen on the Pacific coast may be deprived soon of their powers to perform marriage.

A proposal to make the marriage ceremony purely a civil function, insofar as Episcopalians are concerned, was foremost among the controversial subjects of the Province of the Pacific, of the Episcopal church, in annual session here today. Ten of the 15 bishops of the Pacific coast are attending.

"DAYLIGHT saving" has its many advantages, but it also has its ludicrous mishaps. Consider the present predicament of the writer. By some misunderstanding, he was scheduled for a day meeting in Washington and an evening speech in New York the same day. A bright solution was devised. The "Congressional Limited" leaves Washington at 4 o'clock and arrives in New York at 9. So the Washington meeting was arranged before 4 and the New York speech scheduled for 9, P.M. But suddenly, down comes the daylight saving law in New York, and not in Washington. So it is still easy to leave Washington at 4 and arrive in New York at 9, but as soon as you get off the train at 9 you are on the platform at 10. Never mind how the puzzle is finally solved; this is the predicament. As the New York Times tastefully observed: "I stood on the bridge at three o'clock. And heard the clock strike four. When I recovered from the shock I swore I'd drink no more."

AT a little dinner in Washington at which were present several congressmen, the conversation turned, as all conversations do everywhere on the subject of prohibition. "They talk about members of Congress 'voting dry and drinking wet,'" said a veteran member. "Personally, I know of only handful of congressmen who drink to amount to anything, and practically none of these ever appears in public actually intoxicated. It is so rare that it is a sensation if it happens. There may be more who take an occasional cocktail, if it happens to be offered to them at a friend's table, but most of them, to my knowledge, drink nothing at all. Personally, I wouldn't know where to get a drink, in Washington or in New York, though I do not doubt that there are those who could inform me if I asked them, and I have never been approached by a bootlegger, nor known personally of the presence of a bootlegger, in the office building or elsewhere in Washington. I do not deny that these things exist, but I know that they are not intruded on those who are not looking for them, and that most of my colleagues are in the same situation as myself." Every congressman present confirmed this as his own experience.

This is doubtless not the whole story. But it is first-hand evidence of an often overlooked part of it.

Vaudeville-Movie Alliance Affected

HOLLYWOOD, May 6.—An alliance of the Keith-Albee, Orpheum and other theater circuits with the Producers' Distributing Corporation, controlled by Cecil B. De Mille, has been entered into, affording a new outlet for De Mille motion picture productions.

The arrangement constitutes a virtual merger, according to De Mille, the Keith-Albee-Orpheum group having obtained a half interest in the Producers' Distributing Corporation, with equal representation on the board of directors.

More than 2000 theaters scattered throughout the country will be affected by the merger, it was said in the De Mille announcement.

Man Shoots Two, Then Kills Self

BELLAIRE, O., May 6.—Apparently crazed, Edward Davis, 55, a farmer, shot and killed his estranged wife, his wife's sister, Miss Florence Bennett, then shot and killed himself early today.

BRITISH LABOR REJECTS PLEA TO END STRIKE

to our foreign customers. Naturally, they are seeking other buying centers. I believe we will hold our domestic trade, but no foreign markets.

Loss on Re-export Trade
"Britain is losing $2,000,000 a day on imported goods which normally are re-exported. And we are losing $2,500,000 a day on imported goods normally re-exported to the colonies."

The railroads are losing nearly as much daily through passenger and mail suspensions, and the loss from coal and freight suspensions amounts to about $4,000,000 daily.

"The government is losing $2,000,000 daily from customs."

A spokesman for the mine owners told the United Press that the owners' strike loss was averaging about $3,500,000 daily and indicated that the loss being sustained by the retail dealers in the mine district by estimating that the average miners normally spent $15 a week with retail dealers and that now his expenditures would not average more than $2.50 weekly.

Taking into account the daily wage loss of labor and the loss to factories and others compelled to close or curtail operations by the strike, it appears that the industrial dispute has already cost $1,000,000,000.

Cable Received from Green
The Trades Union congress communique featured the cable received yesterday from William Green.

president of the American Federation of Labor, and a similar congratulatory, well wishing cable from workers in Norway. The communiqué interpreted as significant the resolution of the city council of Newcastle, which asked the government to resume peace negotiations with the strikers.

It denied the report that strikers were refusing to handle food.

No hint of peaceful compromise was contained in the government's communiqué.

The situation generally is increasingly satisfactory and there is no truth in the rumors that two or three policemen have been killed or that a cabinet minister has been injured," the communiqué reported.

Hope of Settlement Wanes

Hopes of early settlement of the general strike seemed banished from the thoughts of the mighty forces engaged in the industrial struggle today, and labor and the government each moved to break the resistance of the other.

The situation today was somewhat similar to that during the second week of the World War, when the last of the optimists had been convinced that no superhuman force was going to materialize to send the armies marching home in peace.

With each day the strike continues, the moment when taut tempers will snap, comes nearer.

Labor tightened its grip on London today when taxi drivers joined the general walkout, which had already crippled transportation facilities.

The Bishop of Oxford has called a mass meeting for tonight to urge resumption of the negotiations.

Violence is on Increase

Violence is slowly gaining momentum in some of the larger urban centers. London's workers launched a campaign today to prevent the operation of non-union omnibus and charabancs.

Each independent bus operating today is guarded by a policeman, who rides beside the driver.

The saloons are still open, but their business is hampered by lack of beer, which cannot be obtained from large breweries.

Oil barges are moving in the Thames under naval protection.

Every major port in Britain today is under the guns of one or more war vessels. Troops are in readiness throughout the land. In addition to the large police force normally employed, the government has enrolled thousands of special constables.

With these tremendous forces at his disposal, Premier Baldwin has decided to smash the strike if the strike leaders do not submit.

From strike headquarters, the council of the Trades Union congress is issuing orders to extend its emergency organization throughout Great Britain. The strike leaders had learned in informal conversations yesterday the government would not budge from its position.

Test of Resources

With each side anxious for peace, but compelled by the attitude of the other to continue the war, the duration and outcome seem to depend upon the resources of the opposing forces. The government has the greater resources and seems most likely to win.

The principal problem before the strike leaders is to provide against the inevitable day when the strikers' fund shall have been expended and the men and their dependents, more than 100,000 people in all, are hungry and demanding food.

Of the 4000 American firms in London, practically all of them are affected by the strike, C. D. Lyon, commercial attache at the American embassy, told the United Press. Lyon believes the strike will not last long.

The British public still regards the local disorders which have taken place as "beer and idleness" demonstrations.

Fires in London Times

Fire of reportedly incendiary origin was discovered in the plant of the London Times last night, a short time after police had raided the office of the Daily Herald, labor's newspaper. The government explained that the raid was a precautionary measure.

When the Labor paper was found to contain only strike news and propaganda, the police withdrew, permitting publication.

Premier Stanley Baldwin and J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railway Men, admitted in the house of commons last night that the premature strike in the Daily Mail plant, when the editors refused to alter an editorial to conform to employers' demands, had resulted in rupture of peace negotiations Sunday night.

The official "British Gazette" today appeared with another editorial, saying a general strike was a threat against constitutional government and insisting that no government could submit to such a threat.

William Anderson, a cook, residing at 414½ West Fourth street, was arrested yesterday and charged with being drunk. He was lodged in the county jail.

R. W. McKnight, 1414 Bush street, reported the theft of a motorometer and radiator cap from his machine last night, while the car was parked in the downtown district.

An automobile, owned by Elmer Helm, Orange, stolen last night between the hours of 7 p.m. and 10 p.m., from a place where it was parked on Third street, between Bush and Spurgeon streets, was located early today by city police. The car was found parked on Bristol street, near Eighth street by Officer B. A. Hershey.

W. V. Anderson, 35, charged with being drunk, was arrested yesterday by Officer W. A. Swain. He is booked at the county jail and probably will be given a hearing before City Recorder J. T. Talbot, today.

S. A. MEXICAN MOTHERS ARE GIVEN PICNIC

A "Cinco de Mayo" celebration which was happily planned as a surprise for the members of Mrs. L. Harter's class of Mexican mothers, was an unusual event of yesterday, in which a group of kindly folk took part and brought a great amount of joy into the lives of the little group of foreign women, struggling to learn the customs and ways of a new country.

Mrs. Harter conducts her classes in a home on Third street, near the fire station, and there the Mexican mothers assemble certain mornings of the week to learn American cooking in addition to other things.

Yesterday, the weekly cooking class was held and the women were taught the mysteries of sandwich making. When these were completed and packed neatly with other edibles in individual packages, the surprise was sprung. Several automobiles arrived and the mothers, with their little tots, were taken to Orange County park for a picnic. It was the first time that any of them, with but one exception, had ever seen that beauty spot of the county, and their joy knew no bounds. They reveled in the surroundings, their beauty loving souls satisfied with the tall trees and the green vistas. At noon they arranged the contents of their packages on the long tables and knew the joy of an American "Pee-wee-necky."

In the afternoon, the children were introduced to the pleasures of the playground and many of the mothers, fascinated by the slides and swings, joined in the play. The alligator was visited and the women demanded to learn the queer name of so peculiar a creature and had their teacher spell and write it for them. One of the tall trees excited their interest and its shadow was carefully stepped off and its height computed to be 125 feet. The birds and their stores of acorns and their processes of feeding their young were exclaimed over and finally the little lake was visited and the fish fed. The happy day finally ended with a treat of ice cream and then the mothers were brought swiftly back to their homes in time to greet their older children home from school.

Those co-operating with Mrs. Harter in planning the happy day were Mrs. Elizabeth Clark, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Osborne, Mrs. Leonore Ward, Miss Edith Ward and Roy D. Arms.

Court Notes

Complaint Is Dismissed
A complaint charging J. Valdez with failure to support his minor child was dismissed in Justice E. Morrison's court today on motion of the district attorney's office. It was announced that Valdez has arranged for the support of his child.

Suit Being Heard
A suit, brought by Alice Shaffer against the estate of her deceased husband, David Shaffer, and its administrator, was being heard today by Superior Judge E. J. Marks. The suit asks for a decree that the estate is separate property of Mrs. Shaffer, the case involving ranch property near Westminster, together with livestock and poultry.

County Prisoner Paroled Because Of Poor Health

J. A. Randall, former janitor in the city hall, who was committed to the Orange county jail on March 7 to serve six months on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, yesterday was paroled. Poor health was given as a reason for granting the parole. Randall is said to have been in a bad physical condition for some time. Several times it was necessary to have physicians attend him in the jail, it was declared.

No master whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crow's feet or lines around the mouth, ugly fingers, skin that is sensitive, roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.—Adv.

4 DAYS REMAIN TO QUALIFY IN PORT ELECTION

Who will vote at the Newport harbor bond election, on June 10, will be determined within the next four days. Registration for the bond election will close next Tuesday, May 11. County Clerk J. M. Backs pointed out today.

To date, 34,500 voters have qualified to cast ballots at the election. Backs is preparing for a county-wide registration rush during the remaining period. He predicted today that the final check next Tuesday will show a total registration of about 37,000, possibly 38,000.

During the last few days there has been a slight lull in registration activities over. But the definite decision of the county supervisors this week to proceed with the $1,250,000 harbor bond election on June 10 has spurred the voting population to new interest. Special efforts by the harbor boosters during the remaining four days will be directed toward registration as a preliminary move toward getting out the vote on election day.

Registration totals announced by Backs include segregated figures on party affiliation, showing that more than two-thirds of the aggregate are registered as Republicans. Other groups are:

Democrat, 751; decline to state, 1518; Prohibition, 642; Socialist, 183; nonpartisan, 177; independent, 112; Progressive, 49; miscellaneous, 24.

Various Postal Services Made Clear to Public

Clerks at the windows of the Santa Ana post office call attention to the fact that quite a number of patrons of the post office do not understand the difference between the various special stamps and services given by the post office department. As a result of this situation, hoping that a better understanding can be secured thereby, Postmaster T. E. Stephenson has issued the following list of brief definitions:

Special delivery—A special delivery stamp means that upon arrival at the destination, the letter or parcel, to which the special delivery stamp is affixed, will be taken out for immediate delivery. An special delivery stamp does not carry any insurance. The letter or parcel goes by ordinary mail. However, special delivery stamp can be affixed to registered mail, or any other mail.

Special handling—A 25-cent special handling stamp, affixed to a parcel or other mail not first class, means that that mail will travel along with first class mail. This stamp means speed in transit. It does not mean special delivery at its destination.

To insure safety. Registered mail—Registered mail is for safety. It goes in locked pouches and every clerk and person who handles it must sign for it. For 3 cents extra, a return receipt can be secured. Registered mail may be slower than ordinary first class mail, for the reason that all dispatches do not carry registered mail. Registration carries insurance up to $100. Registered mail can carry special delivery, which means immediate effort to deliver on arrival at the destination. Excepting for certain foreign lands, registry is for first class mail only.

Insured mail—Parcels and other mail other than first class can be insured, with fees as follows: 5 cents up to $5; 8 cents between $5 and $25; 10 cents between $25 and $50; 25 cents between $50 and $100. There is no insurance above $100. For three cents extra a return receipt can be had. Insured parcels can carry either special delivery or special handling, or both.

Insurance in both insured and C. O. D. mail—C. O. D. mail is for either damage or loss. Post office clerks will not accept for insurance or C. O. D. mail any parcel that they do not consider properly packed.

The only known bird with large wings that does not use them for flight is the Kakapo, or parrot of New Zealand.

UNIQUE TEST IS BEING MADE TO DETERMINE CAPACITY OF NEW YOST THEATER BALCONY

A unique test to determine the carrying capacity of the balcony of the new Yost Broadway theater was being carried on today under the direction of A. G. Royther, general superintendent of construction for C. T. McGraw and Sons, general contractors.

A load three times as heavy as the weight of a capacity balcony crowd was being put on the upper section of the theater. The theater patrons were represented today by sacks of cement, 2400 of them, each sack weighing 100 pounds, a total weight of 240,000 pounds, or 120 tons.

The seating capacity of the balcony is 669 persons and the average person weighs 140 pounds, the general superintendent said. This would mean that the average capacity crowd in the gallery would represent a total weight of 93,690 pounds, whereas 240,000 pounds is being put upon it.

A balcony built to sustain 25 pounds to the square foot of floor space would be considered very safe, Royther pointed out, but the load being put on the gallery actually represents a weight of 75 pounds per square foot.

Such a test is not required by city building laws, it was said, and it is being solely for the benefit of the persons of the city who will patronize the new cinema house and will provide an assurance of safety that can not be contradicted nor doubted in any sense.

The entire construction crew was being used today to carry the sacks of cement up the long flight of steps to the second floor. Each man carried one sack and the sacks were stacked in groups.

The total sag, when the full load was on the floor, and the total recovery, when the weight is removed, will determine the success of the test, it was added. These figures will be carefully checked by A. Godfrey Bailey and Carl Boller, architects for the building.

The results of the test are not to be determined until the sacks are taken off this afternoon.

CITY ORDINANCE GOVERNING MOVING OF HOUSES ATTRACTS S. A. CONTRACTORS CRITICISM

The re drafted city ordinance, governing the moving of houses in Santa Ana, imposes a heavy tax for moving residences and will prevent many poor persons getting homes cheap, in the opinion of O. V. Dart, local house mover, as expressed in a communication to The Register.

Asserting that the new ordinance has provisions that are unusual, the house mover pointed out that a house moving permit formerly costing $1, now costs $10 or more.

"A house, 13 by 19 1/4, if it has an upper story, will get in for $10," comments Dart. "This is a little odd in size, but that does not make any difference. I say 13 feet wide, as some of our streets are only 23 feet wide and the ordinance says a house must be in width 10 feet less than the width of the street."

"The fee for a permit is $10 for any structure containing less than 500 square feet of floor space and an additional one dollar is charged for each square foot of space above 500 square feet. So the permit cost for a house of two stories, 20 by 50, would be $25.10."

Must Give Exact Hour.

"The wire companies that may be affected by a house in the course of its moving must be notified by the house mover three days in advance and he must give the exact hour the building will be at a wire or pole that would have to be moved to accommodate the passing of the house. That is guessing some. But the movers can do that, for they always run on schedule time."

"However, that is asking no more of the house movers than is demanded of the fire chief under the instruction that he must have the consent of one or more councilmen before responding to a call for assistance in fighting a fire located outside the city limits. Why not notify the chief three days in advance of fire, so he may be prepared?"

"And then there is a charge of approximately $2 cents an hour for use of the streets over which a house is being moved, this being the rate for every hour above 24 that the building remains on the streets.

"Twenty-five feet is the height limit, so we will have to cut the roof off our little shack so as to keep out of jail for three months or to keep from paying a $300 fine.

Causes Great Consternation.

"The ordinance has caused great consternation among the house movers and it is really amusing to them. Many of us are wondering if it will travel, like a disease, from city to city."

Dart pointed out that the cost of moving houses is increased by other charges, such as payment for the time of a city employee, should it be necessary to trim trees or cut trees on the route prescribed for moving a structure, or paying employees of the telephone or electric company, should it be necessary to cut wires or remove poles. Dart also criticizes the requirement that a house mover notify the fire chief twice a day as to the location of a house enroute to a new foundation.

Net H. Neff, street superintendent, in commenting on Dart's criticisms, said that the new ordinance in many respects conforms to ordinances in use by other Southern California cities, the Santa Ana document following very closely that in force in Pasadena. The fees here are less than they are in Pasadena.

BOY ASKS $5116 FOR CAR INJURIES

A suit for $5116 damages, demanded by Raymond Reyes, 16, for injuries he received at Atwood, when struck by the automobile of G. W. Stevenson, was being tried today before a jury in Superior Judge Z. B. West's court.

Young Reyes filed the action through his father, Frank Reyes, represented by Attorney S. B. Kaufman, of Santa Ana. Attorney W. G. Irving, of Riverside, is counsel for the defense.

The accident to Reyes occurred August 1925. Reyes, it is claimed, was standing beside the highway at Atwood when Stevenson drove past him. He claims that Stevenson drove his car at high speed, off the paved portion of the highway where the boy was standing. Reyes received numerous cuts and bruises and had all of his teeth knocked out or broken, he claims.

NEW AIRSHIP FUEL
STUTTGART, Germany, May 6—Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin works, in an address here, announced inventions soon to be patented that involved elimination of gasoline as an airplane motor fuel and the substitution of a new gas to replace the dangerous hydrogen used in German dirigibles.

dena, the street superintendent said To Speed Up Moving.

Eckener declared that the fee charged for a house remaining on the streets longer than 24 hours was designed to overcome difficulties of the past by movers taking their time and keeping the streets blocked longer than really was necessary. He cited an instance of a few months ago, when a building was permitted to remain in one position for two days.

Limiting the width of houses was made for the purpose of protecting park trees along streets over which a house is moved, he stated. Notice to the fire chief of the position of a house enroute is a measure of protection against the department going on to a street blocked by a house should an alarm come in from the district in which the house is being moved, it was declared.

Two Brides-elect Are Taken by Surprise
At Own Party

Surprise Is Planned
To Honor Group
Leaving City

UESDAY evening was marked by a pleasant gathering of former Pomona College girls at the John Knox home, 1628 Spurgeon street, with Miss Edith Knox, Miss Marle McNaught and Mrs. Lynn Crawford, (Adèle Johnston) as hostesses.

The little group is composed of the Misses Helen Tantlinger, Esther Roberts, Mary Lester, Mignonne Swales, Grace Robertson, Lillian Pumphrey, Bertheau Selway, Mrs. Cassius Paul and Mrs. Alpha Hill, Salverson together with the three of the hostess group, and they meet at intervals to play bridge and chat of their happy associations at college.

Bridge was then, of course, the entertainment feature of the evening, and at the conclusion of the round of games, attractive prizes chosen by the hostesses were awarded to Miss Mignonne Swales, high; Miss Helen Tantlinger, second and Miss Lillian Pumphrey, low. When the gifts were presented, the guests turned the tables very neatly by making a gift presentation of their own, and producing two attractive boxes which were given to Miss Knox and Miss McNaught. These proved to be filled with those dainty articles so dear to the hearts of prospective brides.

For both Miss McNaught and Miss Knox recently announced their betrothals, the former to Sheldon Russell and the latter, to Chester Stafford.

Their weddings are anticipated as events of June. The delightful surprise planned for them was done with the co-operation of Mrs. John Knox and Mrs. Crawford, herself a bride of but a few months. The two honorees have been the object of many such friendly attentions on the part of their friends.

The evening drew to a close with the card tables were arranged with the daintiest of linens and appetizing refreshments served, the table appointments carefully carried out in tints of violet and lavender to harmonize with the prevailing tints of the larkspur, Japanese lilac and poppies used in floral decorations.

Those present included Mrs. C. F. Bennett, Miss Minnie Childs, Mrs. Fred Conover, Mrs. W. L. Leihy, Mrs. F. A. Logan, Mrs. J. L. Marshall, Mrs. H. A. Wassum, Mrs. H. W. Whitman, Mrs. D. L. McCharles, Mrs. F. H. Fowler and Mrs. Padias, the hostess.

The greater part of the afternoon was devoted to reading selections from the writings of Edna Singsmaster and reviews of her work with a brief interval devoted to Will James. After the study period, Mrs. Padias served refreshments.

The Ethel Troxell Thompson orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing and in the intervals of the numbers, were many added entertainment features.

Mrs. W. W. Zeigler of Huntington Beach, as a gypsy fortune teller, did a land-office business.

A soda pop stand conducted by Mrs. Zena Rhynier, was extremely popular and an ice cream cone stand presided over by Mrs. S. J. Mustol, added much money to the Shrine exchequer.

One of the popular features was the raffling off of a nice quilt, Mrs. Ada Walters being the fortunate one to win it.

PLAYBOYS WILL FURNISH MUSIC FOR PROGRAM

The California Playboys, an eight-piece jazz orchestra, under the management of Glen Coe, will provide music for the entertainment program of the junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce at the meeting, Monday night, in Kettner's cafe. It was announced today by the committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

The orchestra is an all-Orange county organization, the personnel of which is as follows:

Jimmy Briggs, saxophone, clarinet and flute; Orast, Clarion, saxophone and clarinet; Kenny Baird, trumpet; Tommy Wright, trombone; Bob Thompson, piano; Ray Arguello, drums; Glen Coe, banjo.

The band includes a number of singers and vocal numbers will be featured along with the dance numbers. Most of the musicians with the California Playboys are well known in Santa Ana, a number of them being students or graduates of Santa Ana Polytechnic high school.

Play for Dancers. The orchestra also will play for the specialty dance numbers of Eddie Viera and Doris Dysart, Santa Ana dance team, which will do the Charleston the St. Louis and other interesting steps.

George Harris and Barbara Luddy, comedy team, sent to Santa Ana by the William Fox studios, also will rely upon the orchestra for musical background. Harris and Miss Luddy both are big favorites on the vaudeville stage. Harris especially is well known as a raconteur.

A group of boosters from Newport Beach will be present, including Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, George Peabody and Lew Wallace, to outline plans for the $1,200,000 harbor bond campaign, which the junior division has strongly endorsed. Wallace will give the rules for the public speaking contest he is sponsoring in the organization, the first prize to be a silver trophy cup.

Bond Issue Discussion. Following the program, an open forum discussion on the proposed issuance of $432,000 on bonds at the municipal election, to be held May 26, will be in order, President Mason Yould said.

"We want the knockers as well as the bond boosters to take part in this discussion," Yould declared. "Persons expertly acquainted with the entire bond situation will be on hand to answer all questions concerning the proposals. What we want are opinions frankly stated."

The dinner meeting will be held in the gold room of the cafe and will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Reports of Indian Disorders Untrue

A representative of the Klamath Indians, of Oregon, stated to the Register that recently misunderstandings have been given publicity in relation to the condition of the Klamath Indians, at Chiloquin, Ore. According to the statement made to the Register, there are 1250 Indians at that place, engaged in peaceful pursuits and industries; these Indians are intelligent, industrious and ambitious, and work now is being done to give to them full rights as citizens and to secure for them their full rights from the government. Reports of disorder are erroneous, for there is no more disorder there than in any ordinary community. It is true that occasionally young Indians get hold of liquor and cause some trouble, just as young men in other Oregon communities may do.

COSTA MESA
Costa Mesa, May 6.—Leo Stamp, Wilson street, underwent an operation in Santa Ana Wednesday. During the early part of the football season, he had his nose badly crushed during a game.

Mrs. H. F. Robertson, of North Costa Mesa, recently lost her father, C. W. Everett, of Corona.

Nineteenth street, west of Fairview avenue, boasts of three newcomers with their families, V. A. Sebring and family, formerly of Newport Beach; J. C. Tennant and family, formerly of Huntington Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Stafford and family.

Tuesday morning, Dale Hamilton Evans received a telegram notifying him of his sister's death. She lived in Chicago.

May 12, the May clinic will be held at the clubhouse from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Dodge in charge.

Mrs. C. J. Oleson, wife of the local pastor, has been ill with heart trouble.

Mrs. Raymond Eastman, who underwent a serious operation at the Santa Ana Valley hospital Saturday, is rapidly improving.

Mrs. Roy L. Davis is recuperating from a serious attack of influenza. She is at the Arbor Rest sanitarium of Glendale.

Mrs. Lillian Erbe, Mrs. Lora Lane, Merle Ewell, G. Teasny, Jesse Viele and Mrs. R. Viele were Los Angeles visitors Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn were surprised at their home Tuesday evening by a group from the Loyal Workers' Sunday school class.

At the close of a happy evening, refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. Grow S. Brown, class teacher; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Jewett and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bell and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kesel and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Thompson and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dunn.

A fake check signed "U. R. Stuck" was accepted by a Dallas, Texas, tradesman, and found its way through the clearing house before it attracted any attention.

The musk ox of Canada, upon scenting danger, form quickly facing their foe as firmly as would a regiment of soldiers, and stand ready for an attack.

Market to Hold Celebration Of Fourth Birthday

The Grand Central market will celebrate its fourth anniversary tomorrow night, with a "tacky" or "hard times" party, and the management is making elaborate preparations for the event. In addition to the extensive floor space of the big market itself, Second street will be roped off from Sycamore to Broadway and will be used by the dancers. A seven-piece orchestra will furnish music for the occasion from the balcony in the market and the music will be broadcast through a loud speaker to Second street. Twenty-five dollars in cash prizes will be awarded for the best costumes of the evening. There will be no charge and everybody is cordially invited to participate in the celebration.

The orchestra is an all-Orange county organization, the personnel of which is as follows:

Jimmy Briggs, saxophone, clarinet and flute; Orast, Clarion, saxophone and clarinet; Kenny Baird, trumpet; Tommy Wright, trombone; Bob Thompson, piano; Ray Arguello, drums; Glen Coe, banjo.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF WOMEN IN STATE RELATED

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT
RIVERSIDE, May 6.—The history of the California Federation of Women's Clubs was told at yesterday afternoon's session of the twenty-fifth convention, being held here, when Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, first state president, elected in 1900, introduced the various heads of the federation, who were asked to tell, in three sentences, the achievements of their various administrations.

Presidents present were Mrs. L. F. Darling, 1904; Mrs. George Law Smith, 1906 and was president of 1917; Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, Mrs. Russell Judson Waters, Mrs. James W. Orr, Mrs. Lillian Pray-Palmer, Mrs. Emily Hoppin and Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight.

Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, who presided over the federation during the war, told of the mobilization of the women for all activities, their acceptance on juries and the state ratification of woman suffrage. Mrs. Aaron A. Schloss, now general director, guided the organization in 1920 and, during her term, 30 counties were federated, 19,000 new members being gained. During Mrs. William A. Fitzgerald's administration, the income of the federation was increased two-thirds and endowment doubled, while during Mrs. John C. Urquhart's term, the biennial was brought to Los Angeles, the Federation News was started and a presentation made by the state federation of $40,000 for a memorial redwood grove. Other presidents were Mrs. Kate Buss, formerly of Tustin, and Mrs. James B. Hume.

Mrs. Burdette told of the things she predicted a quarter of a century ago when the federation was born and prophesied even greater triumphs for women.

The outstanding address of the day in the flag-draped and flower-decked Congregational church was that Jewish scholar, Rabbi Louis I. Newman, of San Francisco. He spoke on "Who Is the True American?" He brought out that the fact that we all are children of immigrants and in His great melting pot, God molds the true American out of all that is best in each. The rabbi prophesied the organization of "The Sons and Daughters of Immigrants."

The best from every race, each of which brings something of value, should be laid upon the shrine of American idealism, from which is born the true American, said the speaker.

Rabbi Newman painted a dramatic picture of the march of the allies down the streets of New York, when the procession was made of troops from 149 nationalities, all in their native costumes, who, regardless of race, creed or politics, gave their best in answer to their country's call.

A SPECIAL TRADE-IN SALE

Values Beyond Compare in the Tire Industry

Now is the time to buy your General tires for the year. Take advantage of our Trade-in Sale.

You can get going on Generals right now without sacrificing a single mile of the wear left in your old tires.

Our Trade-in Sale gives you an advantage over today's tire prices. In this sale we offset the cost by making special allowances on your old tires.

We are going to take into consideration the fact that when the high cost of rubber caused tire prices to rise, it also increased the value of the tires already on your car.

You can cash in that increased value by trading in those old tires now. And plus that, they have a special trade-in value with us if they are tires you put into use before last September.

You can't save rubber
by using less of it

BY W. O'NEILL, PRESIDENT OF THE GENERAL
TIRE & RUBBER COMPANY, AKRON, OHIO.

In the news of the day practically every statement regarding rubber conservation supports the idea that rubber can be saved by using a few pounds less of it in a tire. This means substituting cheaper com pounds, a growing practice that is not only short sighted but extravagantly wasteful. It is as fundamentally wrong as the subterfuge of putting sand in sugar or water in milk.

Putting shoddy or reclaimed rubber in tires does not save rubber. It reduces the cost of the tire several dollars but at the same time, by diluting the quality of the entire rubber structure, it takes out two-thirds of the wear.

This goes deeper than the tread rubber. It affects the quality throughout in the important rubber cushions that insulate and protect the costly fabric carcass. In addition

It's the second 10,000 miles that makes the big hit.

A policy of building more miles into a tire does more for rubber conservation than any efforts to save rubber by using less of it.

2 NEW OIL WELLS STARTED IN COUNTY

According to the weekly bulletin of the state oil and gas supervisor, notices were filed last week for the starting of two new oil wells in Or-

Mileage Incomparable

So many instances of the second 10,000 miles, and even the third, or more, that you hear our customers talking about it wherever you go.

Riding Comfort Unequalled

Because of General's low-pressure leadership in all sizes, both regulars and balloons, you really know the meaning of low-pressure comfort after you have taken your first ride on Generals.

Car Economy

The saving to the life of the motor and the car itself is due not only to General's low-pressure protection of body and mechanical parts, but also the minimum rolling-resistance in the tires, which makes every ounce of the motor's power count for the most and gets it over the hills with the least effort. It adds months and even years to the life of the motor itself.

Gasoline Saving

Due to the same feature of less rolling-resistance, you save gasoline when you ride on Generals. Sometimes the saving is as high as 20 per cent.

Trade in Your Tires for General 6-ply Balloons

Owners of the heavier cars now realize the tremendous advantages of the General 6-ply balloon—hundreds are changing to this improved balloon tire.

To run on General 6-ply balloons is to know real tire comfort and satisfaction—more mileage—no more punctures than regular-size tires—the greatest riding comfort you ever experienced.

DEVELOPMENT SECTION

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA. THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1926

SECTION TWO

PAGES NINE TO SIXTEEN

IDEAS and Ideals

A. V. NAPIER

Analysis of the building records in Southern California during the past six months disclose a decided preference in the minds of home builders for the Spanish type stucco construction. Approximately three of every four homes erected here in that period have been finished in stucco. One of a critical turn of mind would probably say that many of these modern residence buildings are patterned after the Moorish types, rather than Spanish, and a few embody the characteristics of the Hopi Indian dwellings, but almost anything with an outside finish of stucco has come to be commonly known as a "Spanish stucco," regardless of discriminating opinion.

Ten years ago, the trend of building fashions in California was toward frame bungalows, with wide, overhanging eaves. It was California, you will remember, that put the "bung" in bungalow. The "California bungalow" is still rather a popular type of residence, not only in California, but in other parts of the nation.

The advent of any new type of construction is always accompanied by technical and mechanical problems and by suspicion or prejudice on the part of the general public. The objection to the "Spanish type stucco," until recently, has been that the outside walls are inclined to crack as the material dries. If the walls where these cracks occur are unprotected by eaves, as they usually have been, any beating rain storm is likely to find its way through the cracks. Progressive builders have learned that the inclination to crack can be almost entirely eliminated from stucco work by the use of proper material combinations, carefully applied. As a further safeguard, the first rough coat of stucco is allowed to stand, or "season," before the finishing touches are given the building. If any cracks develop during this seasoning process, they are carefully cemented and made waterproof before the building is finished with its color coat. Stucco buildings are thus made storm proof and the prejudice is overcome, as the recent building records testify.

The use of tile for roofs is rapidly gaining in favor. Contractors declare that the first cost of a tile roof does not greatly exceed other modern roofings. Tile makes a permanent job, if properly done, and it provides a sheltering eave, as a rule, for the upper parts of the walls.

The "Spanish type stucco" is typical of California. It lends itself admirably to the palms and tropical shrubbery that is also typical of Southern California. A neat, colorful stucco dwelling, back of a bright green lawn and embellished by a banana palm or by other luxuriant plants so easily grown in California, is a delightful contrast in the eyes of the eastern visitor, who is accustomed to the more commonplace residences of his native state, in which protection from boisterous weather is the first consideration.

The stucco home is primarily and essentially a California feature, because such a house would be lacking in artistic effect and balance without the tropical atmosphere of palms, or the other luxuriant growths common to California. The picturesquely Spanish house should be encouraged because it is typical of California along with the orange groves, the missions, the Spanish geographical names, the network of paved boulevards, the perpetual blossoms and the other outstanding features of the golden state, that bring such delight to the eyes of visitors from inland parts.

$65,000 IS INVOLVED IN NORTH MAIN TRANSACTIONS

Santa Ana Banker Buys Business Property for $27,500 Consideration

BABBITT BUILDING SOLD FOR $37,500

Commercial Garage Will Be Established On Lot Bought from W. Wright

Santa Ana investors this week continued their drive in what appears to be a campaign to acquire business property, holdings on North Main street, the purchasers further indicating confidence of local financial men in the future of the city.

E. B. Sprague, of the First National bank, and the owner of considerable good property here, has purchased of J. Tod Cook, the business property at 508 North Main street, which is a part of the Ira Chandler estate. Mrs. Cook, formerly was Miss Myrtle Edwards, a step-daughter of the late Ira Chandler. The consideration was reported at $27,500 for the 25-foot frontage on North Main street. The transaction was handled by H. D. Traveller.

The room is to be occupied by the Reed Dryery house and fixtures for the business enterprise are now being installed.

The second transaction in North Main street holdings involves the location of the Crystal Cleaning company, 207 North Main street. L. B. Babbitt, one of the property and the Crystal Cleaning company, has sold the property to S. L. Carpenter, Santa Ana investor, identified with W. B. Martin, realtor. The sale was conducted through the Martin agency. The consideration is reported at $37,500. The lot has a frontage of 80 feet on North Main and a net depth of 120 feet, running to an alley. Babbitt has taken a five-year lease on the premises and will continue operation of his business in the location.

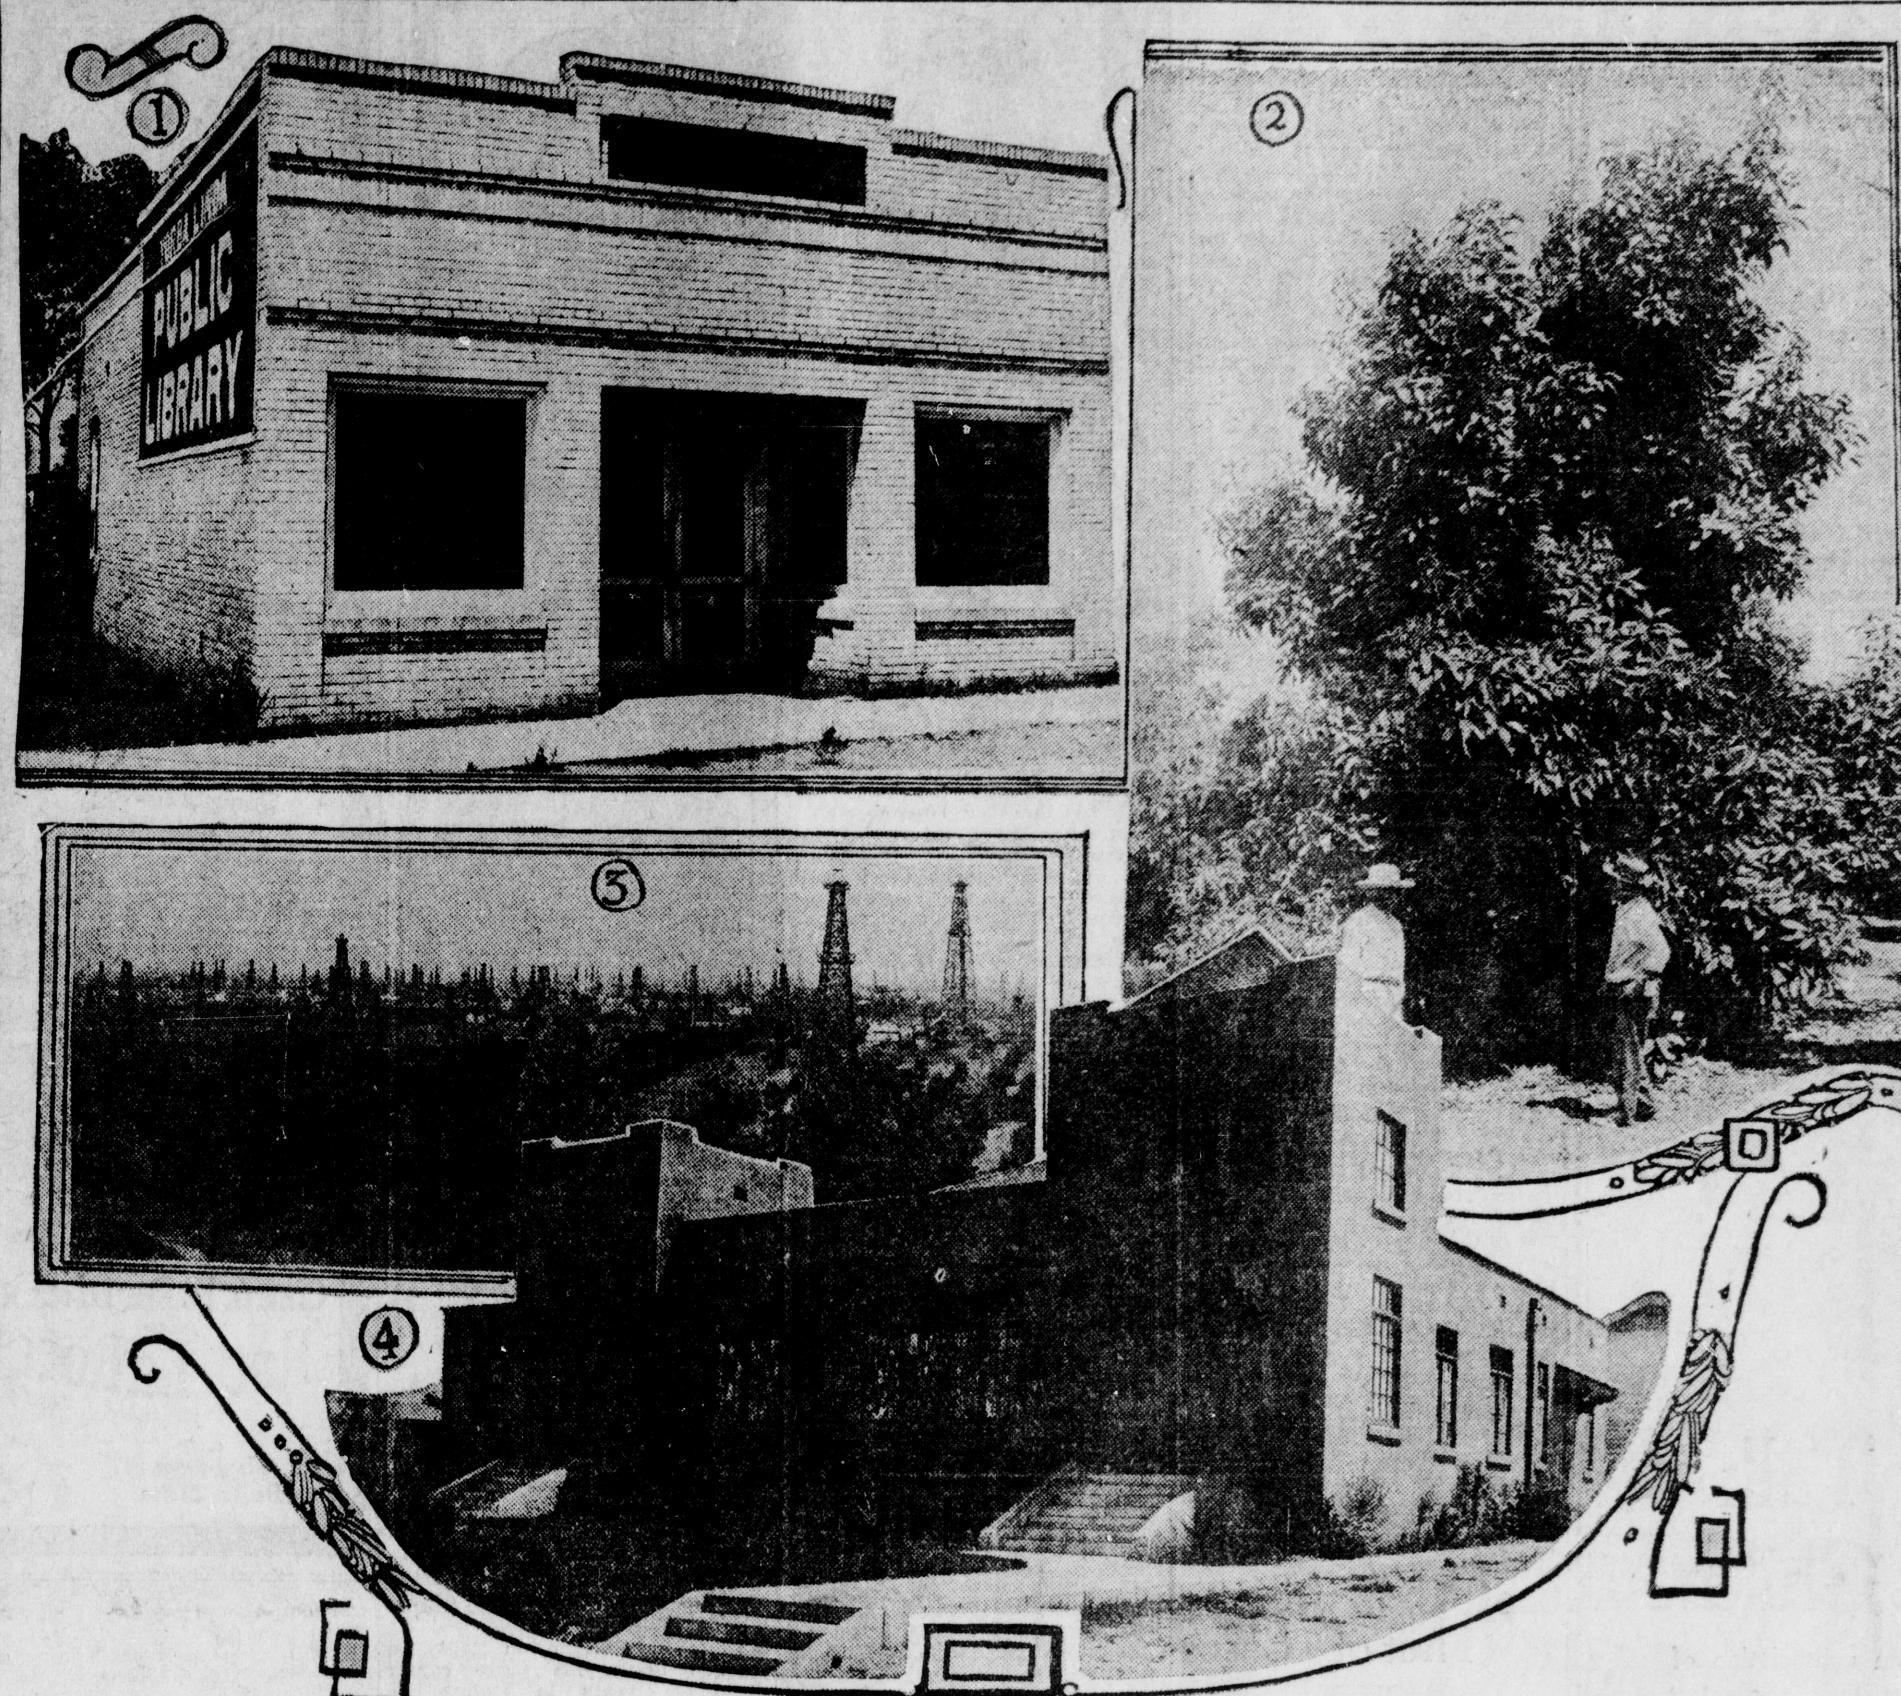

The sales of the two pieces are of interest in comparing prices paid per front foot in comparison with quotations on other pieces nearby which have changed hands recently.

The Sprague property is on the west side of Main street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, and was purchased on the basis of $1100 a front foot. The building is two stories. The Orange County Title company, acquired the southeast corner of Fifth and Main streets on the reported basis of $1650 per front foot, the improvement consisting of a two-story building. The two-story building on the northeast corner of Main and Sixth streets was sold by James Trew and Harry Smith to the Orange County Bond and Mortgage company at the reported price of $1600 a front foot.

The Sprague purchase is between the two last named properties. The Carpenter purchase is on the east side of Main street, about midway between Second and Third streets, and the quoted price represents a valuation of $1250 the front

BROADWAY SITE BRINGS $75,000

An important transaction in improved North Broadway property was announced today by C. M. McCain, real estate broker, who has completed negotiations for the sale by Codd Adams of 100 feet on the east side of Broadway, between Third and Fourth streets to Floyd B. Smith, at a reported consideration of $75,000.

The property is immediately south of the Mateer drug store and corner on the alley at the rear of the building. Attempt was made recently to have the old frame buildings on part of the lot condemned as a fire menace.

It was said that in the transaction, the buildings were considered of no value and that the purchase price was based solely on the vacant land basis.

Smith formerly was owner of what is now known as the Kraemer building, on the southwest corner of Main and Sixth streets. It is said he will build on his new property whenever there is demand for a structure.

CITY BEING INJURED BY UNNECESSARY SUBDIVISIONS SAYS PLANNING CHAIRMAN

By COL. S. H. FINLEY
(Chairman Santa Ana Planning Commission).

The program of the first annual state-wide city plan conference, held at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the California Real Estate association, was made up of short addresses from perhaps the greatest number of real planning experts ever assembled in this state at one time.

It was well worth while to hear different features of the subject of city planning handled by such men as Charles H. Cheney, Gordon Whitnell, Frank C. Nye, William J. Locke, Paul W. Ivey, Bruce Mason, Dr. Carol Aronovici, Lucien P. Green, Carleton Winslow, F. L. Olmstead, Hugh Pomeroy and others.

One could not but be impressed with the serious results of permitting cities and communities to grow up without any intelligent direction and without thought of the fact that suburban territory is rapidly growing into villages, and towns into larger cities.

Particular stress was laid on the point that the time to plan for cities is when the territory is comparatively free from expensive buildings and other improvements.

The provision for main traffic arteries, and the direction of the location of business, industrial, apartment house and residential districts can then be made with ease and relative freedom from damage. In fact, the general results will be beneficial and result in enhancement of values in all sections.

One of the most impressive points brought out was that most all Southern California cities were permitting business and industries to scatter over two and three times the area that can possibly be maintained for those classifications.

This shipshod policy results in injury to established business areas, as well as great damage to sections in which scattered business and industries are permitted to locate in localities much more valuable for residential purposes.

This policy results in vacant lots and buildings within what should be the closely built-up business section, as well as numerous vacant business buildings in outlying residential territory where they retard the development of a purely residential area, and thus cause the existence of many vacant lots producing nothing but weeds and mortgages.

The county and city are being injured by numerous unnecessary subdivisions for which there is no real demand.

I suggest the following advice as tending to the proper upbringing of our entire community:

Do not spoil a good farm by splitting it up into unnecessary lots. Do not spoil a good subdivision.

COUNTY REALTORS TO HEAR CULVER

More than 200 realtors and their ladies are expected to attend the meeting of the Orange County Realtors Association at Orange tomorrow evening, when Harry Culver, president of the California Real Estate Association, is scheduled to speak; it was stated today by Will Martin, president of the Orange board.

J. R. Gabbert, state real estate commissioner, and Glenn D. Williamson, secretary of the state association, have expressed their intention of being present, as have a number of other well known realty men, Martin says.

Among the Santa Ana men who plan to be present are Everett A. White, past president of the state association and Freeman Bloodgood, chairman of the legislative committee of the state organization.

The meeting will be held in Odd Fellows' hall. A program of entertainment has been arranged by a committee consisting of Jess Coe, W. S. Huscroft and Paul Muench, of the Orange board.

New Road Being Built

Several small roads have been graded and graded by the county the past year but the biggest improvement in that direction comprises the three miles of boulevard being built running east and southeast from the townsite.

Chief of the new buildings being erected here is the Yorba Linda Grammar School, now being erected on the corner of Yorba Linda boulevard and Eureka avenue at a cost of $75,000. It is completely surrounded by citrus ranches, standing on what was a lemon ranch.

This school is of brick and stucco and comprises the very latest ideas in grammar school construction.

Many Homes Erected

Several beautiful new homes have been built the past year, including the home of O. J. Dyckman, which is of colonial architecture. The new Beard home, of Spanish type, is nearing completion, as is also the new home on Yorba Linda boulevard being built for L. Restrepo, who recently came here from Colombia, Central America. This home is being built at a cost of $20,000 and in the plans are included a garage for four cars, servants' quarters, a swimming pool and stables for saddle horses.

On November 1, dedication services were held for the new $25,000 Friends church. The Rev. Ingles is pastor of the Methodist church and these two combine in a Brotherhood meeting once a month.

Water for the tract is provided by the Yorba Linda Water Company, municipally owned. This company spent $20,000 the past year in new pumping equipment and lines. A few ranches are provided

RANCHERS OF YORBA LINDA ARE PARTIAL TO AVOCADOS

Now Famous Brands First Grown in Orange County; Plant New Groves CITRUS FRUITS, OIL BRING PROSPERITY Grammar School Structure Is Being Constructed at Cost of $75,000

The Yorba Linda district is especially rich in oil, citrus fruits and avocados. Yorba Linda ranchers being pioneers in avocado growing. Originally a part of Spanish land grant, Rancho San Cajon de Santa Ana, Yorba Linda was subdivided into 10 and 20-acre tracts by the Janas Investment company.

Knight Avocado Pioneer

The facts in the development of the avocado industry in this district are extremely interesting. E. E. Knight came here from Guatemala, where he was familiar with the industry, and, seeing the advantages of the frostless foothill regions, planted his avocado grove. He propagated the now famous 'Knight' and 'Linda.'

The J. T. Wheaton ranch numbered among the pioneers, the ranch now being owned by Mr. Wheaton's son-in-law, Albert Wilson. Practically all the avocado buds in Southern California were secured from this ranch. The well known "Futura" was first developed on this ranch. In the early days of avocado growing, Mr. Wheaton sold his fruit to the Alexandria hotel in Los Angeles, realizing one dollar a pound.

Avocados Being Planted

Mrs. Lucile Harper now owns the Oliver avocado ranch and raises the "Dutton" one of the newer varieties. Several lemon groves are being set to avocados and Mrs. Harper could have sold thousands of trees this year had she been able to supply the demand.

Emil Boege, of Anaheim, recently purchased the Baker avocado ranch.

Some grapefruit is grown here and considerable loquat and persimmon acreage was set recently.

Packing Plants Active

The two large packing houses here, owned by the Foothill Groves association, and the Yorba Linda Citrus association, care for the 3000 acres of citrus fruit in the Yorba Linda district. Many people will be surprised to learn that the Yorba Linda Citrus association stood third in Orange county in lemon output last year.

Valetina growers have had splendid success and this has been the cause of many Yorba residents planting new groves on the north side of Santa Ana river. There are approximately 400 acres newly planted there.

New Road Being Built

Several small roads have been graded and graded by the county the past year but the biggest improvement in that direction comprises the three miles of boulevard being built running east and southeast from the townsite.

Chief of the new buildings being erected here is the Yorba Linda Grammar School, now being erected on the corner of Yorba Linda boulevard and Eureka avenue at a cost of $75,000. It is completely surrounded by citrus ranches, standing on what was a lemon ranch.

This school is of brick and stucco and comprises the very latest ideas in grammar school construction.

Many Homes Erected

Several beautiful new homes have been built the past year, including the home of O. J. Dyckman, which is of colonial architecture. The new Beard home, of Spanish type, is nearing completion, as is also the new home on Yorba Linda boulevard being built for L. Restrepo, who recently came here from Colombia, Central America. This home is being built at a cost of $20,000 and in the plans are included a garage for four cars, servants' quarters, a swimming pool and stables for saddle horses.

On November 1, dedication services were held for the new $25,000 Friends church. The Rev. Ingles is pastor of the Methodist church and these two combine in a Brotherhood meeting once a month.

Water for the tract is provided by the Yorba Linda Water Company, municipally owned. This company spent $20,000 the past year in new pumping equipment and lines. A few ranches are provided

RADIOLAND TO CARRY ORANGE SHOW MESSAGE

Radioland will carry the message of the Sixth California Valencia Orange show to all parts of the nation. It was announced yesterday by Manager George W. Reid, of the Valencia classics, which starts Thursday of next week.

The first program to go over the air will be from KHFJ, The Times, Sunday night, from 8 to 10 o'clock. This program will be dedicated to the orange show and will be a Mother's day program in character, since Sunday is Mother's day. Uncle John will be on the air as announcer and the talent will be of the best.

Among the artists will be Sara Carlin, soprano; Monrovia trio; Miss E. Jurgens, violinist; Orpheus Four quartet; Margery E. Bauer, mezzo soprano; Mother Trevor, poems, and Mona Content, pianist.

Next Wednesday night, the Motor Transit company will give a program, dedicated to the show, over KNX. On May 19, the Motor Transit company again will be on the air with a program. On Friday night May 14, over KNX, the Davis Broadcast company will present an "all-colored folks" program, dedicated to the show.

KFON, Long Beach, is making an announcement each night of the show in its "Daily Doings." KFPI, Los Angeles, starts similar announcements Saturday night of this week. On the whole, it is estimated that the orange show will be brought to the attention of tens of thousands by means of radio.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL OF ACCIDENT VICTIM

Mrs. E. O. McClure and Mrs. L. V. Millet, daughters of Mrs. Shrader Young, of San Juan Capistrano, whose brother, J. W. Baker, 36, Modesto rancher, was instantly killed when his car plunged off the highway at Pacheco pass this week, left for Modesto this morning to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Young, who recently moved to Orange county from Modesto, was in that city with her son, Chester L. Young, for a visit at the time of the accident.

Mr. Baker was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baker, California pioneers, who came to this state in 1849. Mr. Baker was the last of the sons of this union, three smaller boys being drowned and a fourth son being killed when he fell from a windmill tank six months later.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Young, he is survived by his widow, a daughter, Eleanor, and a sister residing in Oakland.

Scott Guilty In First of 9 Cases

CHICAGO, May 6.—Robert Scott, held for the murder of Joseph Maurer in a drug store holdup, yesterday was sentenced to a term of from 10 years to life imprisonment in connection with a north side holdup.

Seven other charges of robbery and one murder charge are pending against Scott.

The convicted man is a brother of Russell Scott, former Canadian financier, who was convicted of murdering Maurer.

Stage and Screen

Bessie Love and Warner Baxter in a scene from "A Son of His Father," picture now showing at the Yost theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

In his direction of "The Exquisite Sinner," the production now running at the West Coast-Walker theater, Director Josef von Sternberg has proved his genius.

To this writer it looks as though this young director deliberately chose to prove his mastercraftsmanship under the severest of handicaps.

Von Sternberg, whose "The Salvation Hunters" drew more criticism and praise than any picture of the last decade, knew when he selected this story that he was working under the handicap of being watched by every producer, exhibitor, critic and most of the nation's film fans.

He knew that any flaw in his next production would be used to advantage by those who did not like "The Salvation Hunters." He must have realized his admirers expected a production of slow tempo and drabness.

But this young director reversed his first experience as a producer and deliberately chose a story that is the exact antithesis of "The Salvation Hunters." He selected Alden Brooks' "Escape," rechristened it "The Exquisite Sinner" and "shot" it in a fast tempo and a deliciously comical vein. He replaced drabness with color and he made a satirical study of psychology out of a story that in less able hands would have been a mediocre comedy drama.

The cast includes Conrad Nagel, Renee Adoree, Paulette Dubois, Frank Currier, George K. Arthur, Mathew Betz, Helena D'Alys and Claire DuBrey.

YOST THEATER

Theater patrons who have a penchant for real high-class musical talent, will be delighted with Catherine Redfield and company, who are headlined on the Association Vaudeville bill at the Yost theater tonight.

As the curtain rises on this act, the patron is wafted from the theater into fairy scenes with six talented and beautiful singers spinning a week of enchantment with their voices. Some of the most beautiful arias from grand opera are presented. "Rigoletto," snatches from the "Mme. Butterfly" and "Tannhauser," are also beautifully sung.

Impersonations of the Alabama Negroe will be given by Draper and Hendrie in their unique oddity, "Alabama Ham Drama" in which there is an enlivening argument between a colored man and his bride-to-be. A corset solo by Miss Hendrie is also promised as a pleasant feature.

The internationally known comedian, Charles F. Simon, famous as "The Narrow Feller" of the varieties, stirs up one big laugh after another from the instant of his first appearance to the end of his turn.

Rose Blanche and Webster Elliott are a clever couple of remarkable ability in the dancing line.

Mann brothers describe themselves as "Two Jolly Sailors on the Bounding Rope." Comedy is the keynote of their efforts, but they also provide many thrills with their antics on the rope.

The Yost theater's screen offering is "A Son of His Father," in which Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatton are featured.

WEST END THEATER

Rod La Rocque, popular screen star, son of a Chicago hotel manager, did not achieve screen fame until he had suffered many hard knocks at the hands of the goddess Fortune.

Born in Chicago in 1898 La Rocque began his stage career at seven years in Duluth, in "Salomy Jane." He later played child parts in "Shore Acres" and "The Middleman." Returning to school for an interval, he played in vaudeville. Then, after another school term, he played in the musical comedy, "The Blue Girl."

He began his screen career with Essanay in "George Ade Fables." He supported Bryant Washburn in many productions, but the work was hard and none recognized him in a coming screen star. When Essanay closed, he was compelled to borrow money in order to get back to New York. He played in several stage tryouts which failed and finally he supported Billie Burke in her picture, "Let's Get a Divorce."

Although his work showed great improvement, he found it difficult to get screen engagements so he went back to the stage in support of Alice Brady in "Anna Ascends."

He may be seen now at the West End theater in "Red Dice."

Advertising Sold
Thirty Million
Pounds of Tea

NEW YORK, May 6.—Sir Charles Higham, British advertising man, told guests at the Bureau of Advertising dinner that an expenditure of only $400,000 in newspaper advertising had increased the sale of tea in the United States by 30 million pounds.

"We've sold five times as much as we had expected," he said. "Newspaper advertising has put us so far ahead that other mediums don't count and needn't exist."

He said his agency had handled $20,000,000 worth of advertising and that "every cent of it went into newspapers."

GARDEN GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, May 6.—The regular monthly meeting of the Home Economics club was held at the home of Mrs. Wayne Holt on Tuesday afternoon.

What makes jelly jel?

Fruits contain, in varying amounts, both sugar and a certain jelling substance, but no fruit contains enough of either to jelly all of its juice.

That is why you used to have to "boil your fruit down," or concentrate it, until it had lost a large amount of its juice—and unfortunately much of its fine fresh flavor and beautiful color as well.

But now you can add jelling substances as readily as you add sugar to your fruit. For certo is the jelling element of fruit—refined and bottled for your convenient use. With certo only one or two minutes' boiling is enough to give a perfect, tender jel. You cannot have a failure, and your jelly retains the delicate, luscious flavor of the fresh fruit and its bright, natural color.

A book of short tested recipes comes with each bottle of certo. You can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of the recipe used. Address Douglas-Pectin Corporation, 15-S4 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y.—Adv.

JUVENILE WORK PLAN OUTLINED
BY SIR KNIGHTS

Detailed plans for rehabilitating juvenile delinquents, including an extension of the Big Brother movement to welfare work among young offenders, as well as recommendations for improvements in dealing with juvenile problems, are contained in a set of resolutions adopted by the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table.

The resolutions were drawn up by the juvenile committee of the Santa Ana table, of which Dr. James Workman is the chairman. Copies of the same were mailed today to secretaries of the various tables in California as well as to the executive board of the international table for its consideration.

Reflects Cranston's Views.

Reflecting the view expressed a short time ago by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools and members of the county juvenile home committee, are the following recommendations:

"To gradually eliminate the penal institutions now existing in California for juvenile delinquents; to place under the supervision and control of the state board of education the juvenile delinquents, thereby affording for this highly important work teachers of the first caliber, specially trained in this work."

"Juvenile courts to urge the press not to publish records in juvenile cases."

"Plans for club activities among juvenile delinquents are set forth as follows:

"Arrange with probation officer of county to assign to boys on parole—number to be determined by each table."

"Secretary to obtain from probation officer names and addresses on boys assigned to table."

"Act as Big Brothers."

"Secretary to get in personal touch with each boy so assigned and get over to the boys the fact that the Knights want to act as Big Brothers to them."

"Table to set apart a certain meeting time for getting acquainted with the boys and entertaining them. Arrange entertainment in keeping with their youth. Abstain from preaching but treat them as you would your own son."

"In a reasonable length of time after the first meeting, arrange special meeting for the boys. By this time the boys feel that we are sincerely interested in their welfare. At this meeting present to each boy a bank account in the sum of $1 and a copy of the 'Idylls of the King' in juvenile edition. Assign two Sir Knights for each boy to act as Big Brothers. Eventually allow the boys to select their own Sir Knights to act as Big Brothers."

"Quarterly meeting in charge of committee on juvenile work, with all boys present; entertainment for the boys and educational work upon King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table."

"Committees on juvenile work to diplomatically gain personal contact with parents of the boys, for it is the nature of a boy to want his parents to know his friends."

Surprising New Discovery
Grows Hair, Stops Dandruff or Money Back!

Modern science has made the sensational discovery that gasoline is the highest grade—far superior to alcohol as a base for a hair tonic. Gasoline alone has two important benefits which are of immeasurable value to your hair. First, it is extremely penetrating and cuts and dissolves all dried and hardened scalp oil and suffocating dandruff. Second, it contains the medicinal qualities of kerosene—an old time proven scalp treatment but extremely objectionable—being "greasy" and sticky.

Gasoline as a base for Cocotone Hair Tonic quickly penetrates to the hair roots and acts as a vehicle which carries other very high-grade and carefully selected ingredients to the point needed—the follicle or hair bulb. Dandruff and scalp eczema vanish like magic. It quickly stops falling hair. Cocotone contains no alcohol.

Cocotone produces a tingling to the scalp—creates a rush of new healthy blood carrying much needed nutrition to the scalp. A few luxuriant growth of glossy hair appears, if the hair roots are not dead. In nearly all cases the root is dead but can be easily saved with dandruff and hardened scalp oils. Thousands of tests have proven that Cocotone will do as claimed—that's why we make an unlimited guarantee of satiety—you are the judge.

Cocotone is very popular as a hair dressing. Makes the hair glossy and non greasy or sticky. Does not pluck down the hair but makes it stay combed. Price $1.00 per bottle all good druggists.

VAST ARRAY OF CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE STILL LACKING

The shifting of a periscope these days doesn't bring romping into view any great number of candidates who hadn't been mentioned, but it does gather in considerable dust and smoke stirred up here and there by the activity of those who have their eyes fixed on a certain date in the latter part of August. Three months and a half from now the yarn will have been spun, the beans will have been spilled and political cards will have done their duty, though many of them will be left to decorate trees and country fences for months to come.

There ought to be a law compelling candidates who take their cards up anywhere anyone can see them to go around the day after election and pull them down. Or, maybe we could arrange a bet whereby the defeated candidate would pull his own and his opponent's cards down and chuck them in a ditch.

But cards or no cards, there seems to be quite a lot of stir just now, and one who is interested in the get-up-and-go of county politics might as well get ready to shout. In the meanwhile, let them take a peep through the periscope.

Just Two for Sheriff.

It begins to look as though Sheriff Sam Jernigan and ex-Sheriff C. E. Jackson will be the only ones to step forward and volunteer their services as candidates for sheriff. Can it be that we are to have only two candidates for sheriff? Why, for years now we have always had a lot of candidates out for sheriff. However, if no more come Jernigan and Jackson will be perfectly satisfied. They would like to have the grim battle over with at the primaries and the victim turned over to the coroner. Four years ago, in a field of several, Jernigan and Jackson were nominated, and had to run over again, with the decision thereby postponed until November.

Both of these candidates seem to realize that it's not long till August, and from what one can learn, they and their friends are beginning to burn gasoline and campaign cigars. By the way, the campaign cigar is not counted upon as quite as necessary to making a race as it was 15 or 20 years ago. Some of the candidates forget to use them, and so far as anyone knows those who do seem to get as many votes as those who don't, and there's Miss Whitney who doesn't use them or buy them, and she gets elected right along without opposition.

Four for Justice.

But if the sheriff's race is narrowed down to two, the same thing cannot be said of some other events. Gaze my up! Justice of the Peace Kenneth B. Morrison, successor to the late John B. Cox. There is no ex-justice of the peace out against him, but there are three or four who are perfectly willing to do whatever they can to make him an ex-justice of the peace.

One of these three or four or more is J. C. Metzgar, for some years secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, now engaged in advertising and publicity as an owner of the Keystone Advertising agency. Metzgar announced his candidacy a month ago. That makes two—Morrison and Metzgar.

Clinton Innes, well known in Santa Ana veteran of quite a number of campaigns, including a campaign as a soldier in the Spanish-American war, sent word around to the Political Periscope a few days ago that he is running.

That makes three—Morrison, Metzgar and Innes.

Then, the periscope tuned in on OWH. Thus it came that we heard this announcement: "This is OWH, attorney, Santa Ana, California; the next number on the program tonight will be a song entitled 'I'm Almost Running for Morrison's Job' written by O. Wray Humphrey." Humphrey used to be with the Abstract and Title Guaranty company.

Wray Humphrey hasn't passed the song yet, but the words convey the notion that he is almost persuaded.

That makes four—Morrison, Metzgar, Innes and maybe Humphrey.

While we are tuning in, we'll try station ERA at the courthouse, but the line's busy or something, because Earl R. Abbey, superior court clerk and secretary of the Republican County Central committee, is sitting still and saying nothing.

So, for the present we can leave it at three and maybe four.

It's a Supervisorial Year.

It looks as though this was going to be a busy year among those who are or may be county supervisors. Ordinarily, one or two supervisors gets by without a contest, but this year, with three supervisors to be elected, there are three races looming up.

Two have announced in the second district, William Mitchell, of Garden Grove, and Sterling Price, of Bolsa. Supervisor T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, who has represented the district for 17 years or thereabouts, has made no announcement as to his intentions. Mitchell hitherto has always been a strong supporter of Talbert, and his decision to make the race is looked upon as significant.

Over in the fourth district, Supervisor Willard Smith, who is a candidate for election, will have C. D. Lester, city clerk at Orange, as an opponent.

The fifth district now has three avowed candidates in the field. Supervisor George Jeffrey, ex-Supervisor Howard A. Wassum and S. W. Stanley, former president of the

DISTRICT WILL MUSTER FULL VOTE STRENGTH

Indications that the Orange county district of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers will muster its full voting strength on the election day, May 27, from the state convention of the organization, to be held in San Bernardino, is the attention given to transportation arrangements, it was learned to day.

In this connection, it was intimated that the choice of the Orange county district for state president, Mrs. F. O. McCulloch, may encounter serious opposition from a northern candidate, hence the desire to muster the full voting strength of the district at the convention.

will be a recipe for the delicious Apple Charlotte, as made by the Chef of Sherry's famous restaurant in New York. This is one of the series of hitherto unpublished recipes of the most famous chefs in America, which you will find regularly each Friday with your loaf of Holsum.

HOLSUM BREAD

Buy Bread From Your Grocer!

FROM carbohydrate foods they must get a large part of this energy. From cereals—from certain vegetables—and from bread.

But get it they must—or little minds grow dull and have trouble with lessons, little bodies fail to fill out properly.

That is why good bread is so essential to children.

And that is one reason why Holsum Bread is made differently from any other bread you can buy.

For Holsum is made not simply with "fine ingredients"—but every ingredient used is tested in a special Testing Kitchen before it goes to make a single one of those crisp-crusted, satisfying loaves. Tested both for baking quality and nutritional value.

Take flour. For Holsum Bread we are not content simply to buy flour from the finest mills in America. We test it—not once but three times—before it is used.

With milk—exactly the same care before your children may taste a single slice from a loaf of Holsum Bread.

And so with every other ingredient—sugar, shortening, yeast—even to salt itself!

No wonder countless mothers serve Holsum Bread with such confidence! No wonder, too, that such a method of bread-making should produce the sweet, satisfying, full-flavored loaf that is found on the finest tables today.

If your family is not already enjoying Holsum Bread, order a loaf now—for your very next meal! It is baked not once but twice daily and rushed to your grocer—to be always fresh for you.

SPECIAL RACES TO FEATURE BIG MEET HERE

EAST VERSUS WEST

That there is little if any difference between the athletes of the east and west, is indicated by the marks hung up at the Drake and Penn games recently staged.

A majority of the Drake entries were from western colleges, while eastern athletes predominated at Penn.

Track conditions at the Drake relays were bad, due to much rain; as a result much better time was made at Penn.

In the four feature relays, the half-mile, two-mile, three-mile and four-mile, the easterners turned in the better marks.

However, in the field events, the westerners as usual beat the best showing of the Penn athletes in most of them.

Roland Locke's record of 9.5 seconds for the 100 yards was easily the most sensational performance of the day.

Summing up the showing made at the two meets proves it was about a 50-50 proposition as to superiority.

LOCKE'S RECORD FEAT

Prior to Locke's record performance at the Drake games the best time for 100 yards was 9.3-5 seconds. That official figure is shattered by several sprinters.

Locke's feat of being timed in 9.5 seconds stands alone. Due to the fact that he had the wind at his back, it may not be allowed. In all probability no one will argue that the slow track offset the advantage of the strong wind that was blowing.

In this connection I recall a remark that the late Mike Murphy once made to me. At that time he had charge of track at University of Pennsylvania.

"I really think it is physically impossible for any sprinter to cover 100 yards in better than 10 seconds," said Murphy.

"It is my belief that any marks under that figure should be credited to faulty timing rather than unusual ability."

It will be interesting to see what Locke does in the 100-yard dash at the National Collegiate championships in June.

ALL-AMERICAN

DAVE FALL

Famous Stanford University boxer, who has been chosen for a place on the All-America 1926 swimming team by the National Collegiate A. A. committee. He and his teammate, Wallace O'Connor, national 220 and 440 champion, are the only representatives of the far west on the aggregation. Fall has starred for several seasons.

Jim Mullins, who aspires to the title of the Tex Rickard of the mid-west, already had numerous bouts planned when the commission was named. Besides the Terris-Mandell scrap, Mullins has carded a bout between Bud Taylor, the Haute bantam, and the champion of that rank, Charley Phil Rosenberg.

The new boxing commission, according to the boys of Chicago's loop district, was named without political strength being considered.

Prehn is a boxing instructor at the University of Illinois.

Righeimer is a former barkeeper.

Huncke is just a fan.

Mullins today said that he would immediately start scheduling bouts and that already there loomed a busy season for fighters in Chicago.

The bust-up of the Tunney-Stirling fight in Miami was being discussed and one of the players, with an unmistakable Georgia drawl, said:

"That was a good break for Tunney. That Stirling would have ruined him."

"Bunk," Bill Lamar interrupted. "I've got a cousin who can lick Stirling right now and a lot like Stirling."

"Never heard of him," one of the other players said.

"I know you didn't," Lamar replied, "and I'm afraid you never will, because his folks don't want him to fight and he can't make up his mind."

Did make up his mind, however, and a few days ago the announcement was made that Henry Lamar, descendant of a family distinguished for generations in Virginia, political and social life, had decided to become a professional pugilist.

Lamar, a student at the University of Virginia, is the national amateur light heavyweight champion, a varsity football player and baseball player and a star swimmer.

He is a grandson of the late Supreme Court Justice Lucius Lamar and a direct descendant of a former president of Texas before the state entered the Union.

His uncle, the father of Bill Lamar, the ball player, was solicitor for the post office department during the Wilson administration and he was not pleased when Bill turned from the legal calling to professional baseball.

Bill Lamar had to fight his way through the bushes before he made the grade with the Athletics and cousin Henry will have to go through a much harder process of development and finishing.

Not many college boxers or graduated amateurs make good and few managers want to trouble with them. "The best material is a strong jaw and no brains," they will tell you.

Henry Lamar, however, has been tipped off as a great prospect by a number of scouts and if he places his destiny in the hands of some boxing man who will go slow with him he may get some place.

NEW YORK, May 6.—George Brower, one of the members of the New York State Athletic commission, is in favor of Harry Wills as Jack Dempsey's opponent, according to an interview published yesterday in the Evening World.

Stop Dandruff!
Beautify Hair
With Danderine
Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff. One application dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp; stops itching and falling hair.

Furthermore Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow strong and beautiful.

Bobbed hair has made the girls aware of the dangerous effects of unsightly dandruff which is now more apparent than ever since the hair is short.

Danderine is a sure way to get rid of dandruff and immediately don't forget it—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and suppleness.

Get a small bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and keep that dandruff out of your hair and off your shoulders.—Adv.

CHILD WELFARE TALKS PLANNED BY FEDERATION

WHEN PIRATE MAID FALLS INTO CLUTCHES OF POLICE

Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president of the Santa Ana City federation of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, announced today that the city federation will sponsor a series of lectures, to be given at different places in the city, on child welfare, educational matters and social service problems.

Qualified speakers, persons who are authorities on their respective subjects, have been secured for these lectures, which have been arranged for the special benefit of members of the P.T.A., but also are open to the general public, Mrs. Spangler explained.

The first of these P.T.A. community lectures will be given on May 13, at 7:30 p.m., in the Santa Ana high school auditorium. Speakers for this lecture are Dr. Blanche Brown, supervisor of the department of health and corrective education in the Los Angeles city schools, and Anne Raymond, a graduated nurse who has specialized in child welfare work.

Dr. Brown, who also is a lecturer at the Southern Branch of the University of California, will speak on "The Adolescent and the Pre-Adolescent Child." Miss Raymond will talk on "Mothers' Clubs."

NOTE IN PROPERTY DEAL CALLED FRAUD

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey A. Harwood, who sold Santa Ana property to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Knaack for a $3400 note, secured by a trust deed upon Altadena property, now claim that the note was a fraud and want the superior court to order their property returned to them.

The suit, filed through Attorney Clyde Bishop, asserts that the note received from the Knaacks and the trust deed attached were fraudulent in that purported payments set forth on the trust deed were fictitious.

They had been written there by Knaack, it is alleged, to indicate that C. M. Wilson, owner of the property covered by the trust deed, had made a number of payments on the debt, which had not actually been made.

EL MODENA

EL MODENA, May 6.—Friday evening, the members of the Intermediate C. E. of the Friends church, in answer to an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. John Broad, of Whittemore, motored to the Broad home in the Quaker city to help celebrate their wedding anniversary. The following were present: Constance and Leola Drake, Lena May Willsey, Geraldine Davey, Mildred Binkley, Lynne Paddock, Ruby Gray, Leonore Lutz, Marjorie LanFranco, Ruth Stoner, Eula and Orpha Stanfield, Frances Gribble, Louise Ferree, Emma Hiatt, Joe Joseph, Joe Mapson, Henry Stoner, Tyler Coburn, Glen and Kenyon Moody, Edwin Gulick, Dick Brook, Glen Binkley, Hershel Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Binkley, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stanford, Rev. T. J. Coburn and Mrs. Mary Moody.

Mr. and Mrs. Broad moved to Whittier about two months ago.

Last Wednesday, the boys' and girls' teams played the La Habra teams at La Habra. The games were both hard fought, the boys coming out victors, the girls losers.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. B. M. Culter and Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Culter's sister, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. W. A. Settle attended a missionary tea at the Milne home at 520 Glassell street, Orange.

Miss Ruth Fong is making an extended stay in the R. W. Jones home in the hope that the climate will prove beneficial to her health.

Miss Donaldina Cameron, who has charge of the Chinese home, was a recent visitor here on business for the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Lentz, of Howard Lake, Minn., who has been visiting relatives here for a couple of weeks, left Monday for the north.

The funeral of Mrs. Wilkins, a former resident of this place, was held in Fullerton Monday. She was the mother of Nellie and Victor Wilkins, of Orange.

Dan Hall, of Oregon, is making an extended visit with his sister, Mrs. Tom Crofts.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Dyckman, of Yorba Linda, called at the J. P. House recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Will McCrae and John McCrae were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. B. M. Culter.

The A. B. Adair home is completed and the family is moving in.

They have been spending a month in Santa Cruz while awaiting for the completion of their home.

The Fred H. Allen home is not completed yet but is coming along nicely.

Friday, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Adams and daughter, Miss Eva, and Mrs. W. A. Settle and daughter, Miss Addie, were in Santa Ana helping Mr. Adams' father and mother. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Adams, celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. A dinner was served at noon, with a reception in the afternoon. W. A. Settle and Hershel Settle, Henrietta and Beth Fuller, Loraine Sturbaum and Ruth Snow.

Hershel Settle visited in Santa Monica Sunday.

Mrs. Lotte Wilson and children, Lloyd, Grace and Glen, of South Pasadena, visited at the W. A. Settle and R. C. Adams homes over the weekend.

A few days after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin moved to Bay City, Mich., where they made their home until 1913, when they moved to California.

ASKS COURT TO DECIDE AMOUNT OF RANCH DEBT

Ernest E. Gibbs today asked the superior court to settle a dispute as to whether he owes $1000 or $2000 upon a ranch he owns at Nuevo, in Riverside county.

Gibbs claims he owes but $1000 on the property. Wilbert C. Hamilton, who holds a trust deed on the ranch, is said to contend that the amount owing is $2000.

Gibbs admits that $2000 was the original amount, but that half of it has been paid.

His suit, filed against Hamilton and the Orange County Title company, which is understood to be holding the trust deed and attached notes, asks the court for a decree to the effect that the amount of the trust deed balance is $1000. He also wants Hamilton restrained from carrying out an asserted plan of foreclosing the trust deed and selling the property to satisfy it.

In his suit, Gibbs asks judgment for $5000 for being "harassed" and "annoyed" by the dispute over the debt and the alleged threats at foreclosure.

Gibbs' complaint sets forth that the property formerly belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Addis. Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wells, who held a $2000 trust deed on the property, gave their notes for $2000 to Glenn Wells, and secured the notes by depositing the trust deed with the title company.

Subsequently Mr. and Mrs. Addis paid off $1000 of the debt, and later sold their ranch to Gibbs, who assumed the remaining $1000 obligation, he states. Glenn Wells signed the notes and trust deed to Hamilton. Gibbs claims that Hamilton knew that half of the $2000 had been paid, but that he now claims that the whole $2000 is owing, and has demanded payment of amount.

Carl White and Ralph McCuad were recent visitors at the B. M. Culter home.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Adams, of Santa Ana, and their guest, Mrs. Agnes Wheeler, of Los Angeles, called at the R. C. Adams and James McLaughlin homes.

Miss Ruby Gray, Miss Henrietta Blank and Miss Ethel Walker went to Santa Monica recently, to attend a meeting of the Girls' league.

Little Audrey Hancock has been quite ill with a severe cold.

Callers at the George Wood home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sunday, of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bell, of Fullerton.

WISHING TO NEGOTIATE A LOAN EVENTUALLY WITH THE MINISTER, PRINCE JOHN ORDERED THAT ROOM BE MADE IN THE GALLERY SECTION OCCUPIED BY THE FAMILY OF CEDRIC THE SAXON. CEDRIC'S COMPANION, ATHELSTANE, IGNORED THE COMMAND AND THE PRINCE SAID, "PRICK HIM WITH THY LANCE, DE BRACY."

THE KNIGHT DE BRACY PROCEEDED TO OBEY THE COMMAND BUT CEDRIC INSTANTLY DRAWING HIS SHORT SWORD, SEVERED THE POINT OF THE LANCE WITH ONE STROKE. INDIGNANT, THE PRINCE MADE AS IF TO DO VIOLENCE TO CEDRIC BUT THE ROYAL ATTENDANTS INTERFERED. "STAND UP, SAXON CHURLS," SHOUTED THE PRINCE, "HE SHALL SIT AMONGST YE. LET ME SEE WHO DARE STOP HIM!"

"ARRY THAT WILL I!" EXCLAIMED WAMBA, CEDRIC'S JESTER, AT THE SAME TIME FLOURISHING HIS RIDE SHIELD BEFORE THE OLD MAN'S BEARD. STUMBLING, THE AGED MONEY-LENDER FELL AMIDST GREAT LAUGHTER OF THE COURT. "WAL! WAL! DERNED! COME ON, WE'LL DARE FOR ISAK AND REBECCA IN FRONT OF THE LOWER RING. ## The WOMAN'S DAY by Allene Sumner

Juicy Tidbits

A bridegroom "down Virginia way" seeks to qualify the marriage vows by insisting on replying only that "I'll do the best I can" to the minister's query of "do you take this woman?" Marriage called off as the minister would brook no changes. Shame to squelch such originality and ingenuity!

A modern Children's Crusade picquets the White House, four little boys and a girl bearing placards telling of the hunger in their house since father and mother stopped working in the textile mills. But no adult hearts are touched. Spontaneous childish appeal is one thing. Managed, exploited child-hood is another.

Girls Must Be Girls!

Women who have ruled kingdoms have always been clingy, feminine creatures, according to Marcelle Tinayre who, as author of a life of Madame de Pompadour, knows whereof she speaks. "Never a more completely feminine woman in the world than this belle marquise who was born by the name of Polson, or plain Fish." My comment would be one of wonder whether the regard given these peerless feminine creatures was worth the candle—whether the gains of women who can stand on their feet are not infinitely more worth while than even the kingdoms bestowed by decadent monarchs!

Blondes Prefer "Safires"

Just as everyone else in the world recovers from hysteria induced by reading "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," I stumble on this illuminating diary of the winning blonde who opines that "a kiss on the wrist makes her feel good, but a diamond bracelet with safires lasts forever."

Keeping 'Em Blonde

Speaking of blondes, they say that a spoonful of soda in the shampoo rinses water keeps the hair golden. A blonde and egg shampoo come to no good end unless the blonde uses but the white of the egg and not the yolk.

What Sam Ate

Samuel Pepys of diary fame thought so much of his menus that he wrote in his diary the sum total of all his meals. He seemed much pleased over a dinner he gave at which he served: "fricassée of rabbits, and chickens; a leg of mutton boiled; three carp in a dish; a great dish of side of lamb; a dish of roasted pigeons; a dish of four lobsters; three tarts; a lamprey pie, a dish of anchovies, and good wines of several sorts."

Here they seek a mate and prepare a nest for the expected eggs. After selecting a site usually at the head of a shallow riffle they make a mound of small stones. The peculiar mouth of the creature is particularly well fitted for this work.

Sallying out from the nest site the fish selects a pebble which by suction can easily be lifted from its bed, and it bears it to the selected spot where it is dropped.

Numberless similar trips are made, each adding its product to the pile until a mound of gravel a foot or more high and two or

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Oranges, cereal cooked with dates, thin cream, soft-cooked eggs, crisp bran toast, milk coffee.

Luncheon—Spring rice, rye bread, lemon sponge pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Planked white fish, marinette potatoes, buttered new beans, jellied cabbage salad, strawberry fluff on sponge cake, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

The easiest way to cook a fish is on a plank. There is no difficulty in transferring the fish to a platter without breaking its shape. The garnishing of the "planked fish" may be as elaborate as the cook desires but the actual cooking of the fish is as simple as broiling a steak.

Always grease the plank well, then lay the fish, split and backbone removed, skin side down on the plank. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with fat. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes.

Spring Rice

Three-fourths cup rice, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 eggs, 2 pounds spinach, paprika, 2 tablespoons butter.

Wash rice through many waters and steam or boil until tender. Season with salt. Arrange rice on a well-buttered heat-proof platter making four depressions. Put a teaspoon of butter into each depression and carefully slide an egg into each one. Season lightly with a bit of butter, salt and pepper and put into a hot oven until eggs are cooked as preferred.

In the meantime cook spinach in its own juice, season with salt, pepper and butter and chop very finely. Arrange in a border around the rice when eggs are cooked. Serve at once.

HAIR

A magnified picture of a cross section of the skin on the scalp is an extraordinary looking affair. If it resembles anything it would be a detailed map of a swamp, for it is full of irregular dark oval marks and flowing waving lines like ponds and rivers. I have before me the much magnified photograph of a tiny bit of the scalp, a bit big enough to show only one single hair shaft. The surface of the skin which we always think of as smooth resembles a range of mountains. The shaft of the hair sinks deep into the surface of the skin through what is known as the hair follicle which is surrounded by the sebaceous glands.

All around are the hair muscles and tissue fibers and the sweat glands, nerves, blood vessels and so on. At the end of the hair is a bulb which rests on the papilla, all of which we call the root of the hair. The sebaceous glands supply oil to the hair, and we are conscious of the hair muscles when fright makes "the hair stand on end." A single hair shows five divisions under a microscope, an outer and an inner "death layer," the "shaft," within this again the "pigment layer" and at the very centre the "core."

It is necessary to understand something of this in order to treat the hair intelligently. The sweat glands cannot act properly in a scalp clogged with dirt or dandruff. For instance Strong soaps that take the oil out of the scalp must be harmful, bristles that tear and scratch the scalp will do more hurt to the scalp than if they were used on the face because, with every stroke of the brush you are bound to work a certain amount of dirt into the open places of the skin.

You can see how absolutely necessary it is that brushes and combs should be kept thoroughly clean.

Miss J. H.—Since you weigh only 108 pounds with a height of five feet, two inches, I should think you need building up so your flesh will be firm and your skin taut.

What you think is a double chin may be due to flabbiness of the skin under your chin, and when you build yourself up all this will be gone. An astringent will help some also, so use a mild one such as witch hazel or a toilet water several times each week, while you are still underweight. A spring tonic may be all that you need, so try one of these and note the improvement.

A. M. J.—The pilocarpine hair tonic is not a dye and the reason why it is advised when the hair is getting grey prematurely is because of its effect upon the color cells.

NO. 4—ALL SORTS OF SHADOWS

"But here are the shadows. Will any of them do?"

While Mister Dusty was unfolding his shadows for the Whiffet to look over, Nick said, "What does your sign say 'Ingredients' for, Miss Dusty?" "What are ingredients?"

"I don't know," said the fairy man. "I really haven't the slightest idea. I've been waiting and waiting for someone to bring in a dictionary so I could find out."

"But why do you have it on your sign then?" asked Nancy.

"Because when people come along and see such a long queer word like that," said Mister Dusty, "they get so curious they come into the store and ask about it. Then when they get inside they look around and buy something. It's good business. But here are the shadows. Will any of them do?"

"I don't know. I haven't tried them on yet," said the Whiffet. "But I'm pretty sure mine isn't here. My shadow was a beautiful shadow with a big necktie and pockets and a quill in its cap. Why this one is nothing but ears. It would never do."

"I'm afraid not," said the fairy man, folding it up and laying it back on the shelf. "I bought it from the donkey."

"And this one would never do either," said the Whiffet. "It's too long. I could wrap it around me three times."

"I'm afraid so," said Mister Dusty, folding the shadow up and laying it on top of the other. "I bought it from the crocodile."

"This one is like a balloon," said the Whiffet. "I should always be tripping on it."

"Right you are," said Mister Dusty hastily, folding it up and laying it on the shelf with the others. "I bought that one from the elephant for five pounds of peanuts."

"Oh, dear!" said the Whiffet. "I don't believe you have anything that would do. Mister Dusty, I'm afraid we shall have to be going."

But just then Nick remembered that they had promised Jack-in-the-Pulpit to look for a shadow for him.

"What is he like?" asked the fairyman, getting his bundle of shadows down again.

"He is sort of like my little finger," said Nick holding it up.

"Then I have the very thing!" exclaimed Mister Dusty, and took

BRITAIN AHEAD OF AMERICA IN RAIL COMFORTS

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, May 6.—We Americans always like to kid ourselves into the belief that when it comes to railroading we have the last word in traveling comfort. Forget it! The slow Britisher beats us all hollow.

He likes his comfort and he likes his privacy. Hence his sleeping cars beat ours a mile.

The Briton stands aghast at the proximity of our Pullmans. He can't understand a sleeping car in which the berths are only separated by board partitions and screened off from prying eyes by curtains.

He doesn't like the idea of a grand rush in the morning to a common wash room where people line up to get a wash basin and a chance to shave.

He points with pride to the latest model of sleeping car which travels between London and Edinburgh. Each car contains only 10 sleeping berths. Each passenger is given a little room or cabin. He closes and locks his door and has complete privacy.

Everything that he may need for his comfort has been carefully studied and provided. There is a switch that will turn on an electric fan either slow or fast. There is another switch that will open or close a ventilator in the roof.

There is another switch that will turn the light off entirely or down to a faint glow. There is a handle which is turned and which opens the window without any strain upon the passenger.

In the morning when he gets up, there is in his cabin a wash bowl of his own with piping hot water, soap, towels, shaving mirror. In other words, the blooming Briton for his five dollars gets what he would have in a hotel—a room all complete for himself.

In the heart of Edinburgh there is an old cemetery in which some of Scotland's famous men, including David Hume, the historian, lie buried.

You wander around its paths and at a turning in the road, you are suddenly amazed to see a life-size statue of our own immortal Abraham Lincoln. It was placed here some 15 years ago by some American subscribers.

The monument was beautifully dedicated to the memory of the Scotch Americans who fell in our Civil war, fighting to preserve the Union.

Lincoln is thus made a unique great man. London, Manchester and Edinburgh have statues of him. No Briton has been thus so largely honored in our country.

Speaking of graveyards, there is an ancient cemetery surrounding the remains of the old 11th century cathedral in the great town of St. Andrews, Scotland.

In one place I came across the monument put up over the graves of an old Scotch sea captain, his wife and sons and daughters. And here is the quaint inscription:

"Here we lie horizontal, like a ship out of commission, stripped of its sails and rigging."

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, May 6.—"I desire to say nothing unpleasant." Thus Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, getting up from his seat in the hall of the solons, one day recently, to discuss the government's bargain with Mussolini concerning the Italian war debt.

He hardly got what he desired. Or else he has a funny idea of what isn't unpleasant. Most people probably would so interpret such a remark as, "This is altogether the biggest steal in history."

It's difficult to get any very pleasing meaning out of an adjective like "infamous." It was one of a number applied by Reed to that debt agreement, and not the worst one, either.

However, Reed may have considered that, for him, he wasn't saying anything especially unpleasant—not in comparison with other speeches he's made.

When Jim Reed objects to a

Speed Fines Total $115 In Half Hour

NEWPORT BEACH, May 6.—Fines amounting to $115 were collected in 30 minutes yesterday from six speed law violators who appeared before City Recorder W. A. Leonard.

Following court, Leonard issued a warning to all speeders, to the effect that, while fine rates are being imposed at the present time, if speeding in the district continues he will make the fines heavier.

"The narrow streets here make fast driving dangerous proposition and we propose to make this city safe," Leonard declared.

The judge, who is a new man on the bench, makes it a point to consider all phases of the case and tempers the fines accordingly.

The following were among those to appear in court yesterday: E. Castor, Orange, 42 miles an hour, $25; I. C. Gibson, Bell, 40 miles an hour, $15; H. McDonald, Santa Ana, 40 miles an hour, $20; S. A. Davis, Santa Ana, 38 miles an hour, $20; H. Wiechman, Los Angeles, 38 miles an hour, $20; F. H. Hamby, Santa Ana, 38 miles an hour, $15.

Orange Lions to Entertain May 12

ORANGE, May 6.—Lions of Orange will hold open house next Wednesday evening, when their ladies will be guests, according to plans promulgated at the weekly luncheon meeting of the club yesterday noon at the Hotel Rochester.

Lynn Wallace, Wilbur Lentz and J. E. Riley compose the committee to formulate an entertainment program for the occasion.

Entertainment furnished the club at yesterday's meeting by H. O. Wallace, entertainment chairman, consisted of violin selections by G. B. Crawford, known as the Missouri fiddler. Crawford has just come to Orange from Missouri, where he is said to have attracted considerable notice by his ability.

Col. S. H. Finley, Orange county supervisor, addressed the club on the Boulder dam project.

The Rev. Harry Hill presided as president in the absence of George C. Sherwood.

BREAK GROUND FOR LAGUNA BEACH'S NEW WATER SYSTEM; PIPE DELIVERY BEGINS SOON

LAGUNA BEACH, May 6.—Ground was broken for the new Laguna Beach water system yesterday, when Fisher and McCall, Santa Monica contractors, started their big trench digger from the Canyon road and sent it up High Drive half a mile before sundown.

Because of the heavy rains this year, the digging is comparatively easy and the contractor expects to be well within the time limit for laying 10,000 feet of the permanent distribution system of Laguna Beach.

In addition to the mechanical digger, Fisher and McCall had a large force of men at work where it would be difficult for the machine to go. Edgar Alan Rowe, chief engineer for J. B. Lippincott, was on hand when the work started in the morning and was happy over the fine progress made during the day.

It is estimated, that, barring something unforeseen, water will be turned into the mains from the temporary water line the middle of June.

Word was received today that the cast iron pipe for the mains would be unloaded in San Pedro on Friday. It will be inspected immediately and hauled within five days, according to contract. Work on the temporary line that will bring water to Laguna Beach from Corona Del Mar will start Tuesday next week. The pipe will be laid on top of the ground.

Celesta Dierker Weds Banker at Orange Ceremony

ORANGE, May 6.—Miss Celesta Dierker, daughter of Ed H. Dierker, local rancher, was wed to A. E. Behmeman, Los Angeles banker. The ceremony, at St. John's Lutheran church by the Rev. A. C. DeBenedictis, was performed before a large audience of friends and relatives.

Following the ceremony in the Lutheran church, a reception was held in the Women's club house, at which 130 guests were present. A program of music was presented by Miss Phyllis Kogler, Alice Flene and Pauline Thompson.

The couple will spend several days in San Francisco before returning to Orange. They are not yet decided whether they will live at Orange or Los Angeles.

Nazarene Church Pastor Resigns

ANAHEIM, May 6.—The Rev. Fletcher Galloway, for the past year pastor of the Nazarene church here, today announced his resignation to take effect June 8. At the same time, the Rev. Galloway announced that the Rev. Will H. South, at present pastor of the Graham Station church, Los Angeles, would assume the pastorate of the Anaheim church.

The Rev. Galloway plans to take up graduate work at the University of Southern California in order to obtain a master's degree.

Under the Rev. Galloway's leadership, the Nazarene church has added 55 new members and has paid off $2,000 of the church debt, the church records reveal.

Two Join Legion Post at Newport

NEWPORT BEACH, May 6.—Jack Riggs, new motorcycle officer here, and Frank Lugo, were admitted to membership in the local American Legion post at the regular session of the post Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Vierra and family spent Sunday at Hermosa Beach where they visited Mrs. Del Cavitt. On their return, they called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Keen, in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards and son, of Orange, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Guadlin.

Mrs. Clarence Newell motored to Orange on Friday to the home of Mrs. Carvins, where she met two other friends from New Jersey. The four women spent the afternoon reviewing old times.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Vierra and family spent Monday evening in Los Angeles visiting Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cobb.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris McCoy Jr. gave a farewell party at their home on Monday evening for Miss Glossie and Homer Davis, who left with their mother Tuesday evening for Kentucky to join Mr. Davis. Homer and Glossie spent Monday with old schoolmates at the Olinda grammar school. The family plans to live in Kentucky.

Mrs. Newell spent Sunday with her parents in Los Angeles. Mr. Newell was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Limons on Sunday. John Hunt has purchased a new coach.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kunley have a new car.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Schryer entertained at dinner on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Seniors, of Fullerton.

Mrs. Francis Studebaker, Beulah and Vera Studebaker, Wayne Studebaker and Jack Richardson were called to Bakersfield last week on receipt of a message telling of the illness of a relative.

LEGION BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

Issues Call For Parade Candidates

BALBOA, May 6.—A general invitation to girls of Orange county to participate in the bathing parade at Balboa, June 20, was issued today by Madame LaRue, manager of the parade.

In extending the invitation to Orange county girls, Madame LaRue announced that two Balboa girls had already signed their intention of entering.

Miss Marjorie Greeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Greeley, and granddaughter of J. P. Greeley, president of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Mable Young, daughter of Fred Young, Newport Beach city trustee, are the two young women who will represent the harbor district, according to Madame LaRue.

For the first time since Anaheim post was instituted, the annual Memorial day services will be conducted by the post, Ray E. Smith, chairman of the committee in charge, announced. In past years, services in northern Orange county cities have been combined under the supervision of combined veterans' organizations. The Legion's services this year will be confined to local cemeteries, where impressive ceremonies are to be held.

The post voted to attend the installation of the recently organized La Habra post Monday night, when State Commander Allen Bixby, of Pasadena, will be present.

The new building will provide separate offices for the city clerk, city engineer and city marshal, with ample quarters for the recorder's court and for a council chamber. In the rear, one side will be used to house the fire apparatus, while on the other the city jail will be built.

In response to a petition by property owners the board has instructed the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for paving a portion of Central avenue from the north side of East Central avenue, between W. Walnut street to the west city limits, between the present paving and the curb.

DELEGATES OF CHURCH MEET IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, May 6.—Representatives of Christian churches in Anaheim, La Habra, Brea, Huntington Beach, Orange, Montebello, Whittier and Santa Ana gathered in Fullerton today for a district convention. The meeting will conclude tonight.

Arthur Braden, president of the California Christian college, and J. Evans, state superintendent of missions of the Christian church, will speak tonight.

This afternoon the missionary societies met. Mrs. F. P. Foster, Santa Ana, presided. There were several musical numbers. The Rev. Hill, Orange, gave a talk in which he presented a district survey of the churches.

NEWPORT EBELL PLANS PROGRAM

NEWPORT BEACH, May 6.—A number of well known musicians will appear on the program to be given here May 13, under the direction of the music section of the Ebell club, it was announced today.

Mrs. P. L. Bradford, Newport Beach, and Mrs. H. Swan, Anaheim, will render piano selections. Mrs. O. Bigelow, Anaheim, will play on the steel guitar. Miss Kathryn Bryan, Placentia, will give a number of readings. The second part of the program will feature Miss Charlotte Molles in dances.

LA HABRA BOARD LEASES BUILDING

LA HABRA, May 6.—After June 15, all departments of the city will be quartered in the Woodworth building on the north side of East Central avenue. The city trustees have voted to accept the proposition of Mr. Woodworth to lease the building for a period of not less than two years at a rental of $5 per month less than the cost of the present quarters.

The city will take possession June 1, but owing to the necessity of amending an ordinance, it will be June before the official headquarters can be moved to the new building. Mr. Woodworth will in the meantime make certain alterations.

The new building will provide separate offices for the city clerk, city engineer and city marshal, with ample quarters for the recorder's court and for a council chamber. In the rear, one side will be used to house the fire apparatus, while on the other the city jail will be built.

CHARITY IN THE CHEST

The question brought up for discussion at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Santa Ana Community chest is worthy of careful consideration by everyone who is interested in the success of the chest in Santa Ana. Always during a drive there is considerable criticism of various organizations associated with the chest. That is to be expected, for no organization, like individuals, is above misunderstanding and mistakes. However, it was observed by the solicitors that nearly all of the criticism came from persons who were not contributing and never had contributed; the contributors, and especially those giving the most, seemed to be well satisfied.

The point brought up for discussion yesterday might be expressed in this question: "Is the chest giving too much to character-building in comparison to charity and similar relief work?"

A study of the budgets of other Community Chest organizations in Southern California lead to the conclusion that the proportion in Santa Ana as between character-building and benevolence is about the same here as in other cities our size. That fact, however, is not conclusive. Community welfare organizations ought to take care of whatever needs there are in a community, and if Santa Ana is not doing that through its chest or through religious and fraternal organizations or through the aid commissioners' department of the county, steps ought to be taken to meet the needs.

The Community Chest is not authorized to handle charitable cases direct. That is, it is merely an agency to collect funds for the seven organizations that are affiliated with it—Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scout, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Soldier Welfare, and Southern California Children's Home Finding organizations. The funds are turned over to these organizations in proportion to the budgets submitted by them and approved by the chest. The first three named may be designated as the character-building organizations and the last four as those having to do with charity and benevolence. The only way, therefore, in which the Community Chest can be the agency for the collection of larger sums for local charity purposes is through some established organization, either those existing or some other that may be formed and that may go to the Community Chest and seek admittance. The directors of the chest have not refused admission to any such an organization and has not reduced the budget request of the Salvation Army for charity.

With these observations it may be concluded that the directors of the Community Chest have a clear defense if, perchance, there is justice in the criticism that the character-building sum is out of proportion to the amount that goes to charity and benevolence, which latter would include Red Cross and Soldier Welfare work. Reports from the two latter organizations, we might say in passing, indicate that the need for welfare work in Santa Ana has been reduced to about a third of what it was four years ago.

The problem of the distribution of charity in Santa Ana is not greatly different from what it is in other Southern California cities of our class. We have no slums and no tenements. The county takes care of established cases of need to the extent that it provides enough to keep body and soul together. The county does not aim to furnish luxuries, such as candy, money for the movies or money to keep up the payments on a radio or a second-hand automobile. A number of church organizations want more than a body-and-soul pittance for cases in which they are interested; they want the children well enough dressed so that they can go to Sunday school, and sometimes they do not want their cases to have to face the indignity of "being on the count." The Salvation Army, in accordance with the need, deals with cases that come to it. If the Salvation Army needs more money for that work, we have no doubt the Community Chest will gladly approve its budget request.

But if the Community Chest is to take over the many cases of charity handled through church organizations—cases that are not handled by the county or Salvation Army—or is to assist in that work, there is but one way in which that can be done, and that is through an established organization, such as an Associated Charities organization, that can distribute the money fairly and to those deserving of relief. Unless that is done, the Community Chest cannot be justly charged with any discrimination in favor of character-building. We are not numbered among those who believe there is ground for adverse criticism. We do not believe that money spent for character-building is money spent amiss. We would not reduce those budgets; we see no reason why, if the community wants it, there should not be an Associated Charities organized here, and given a place in the chest. At least, the existence of such an organization would knock the props out from under those who claim that the chest does not appropriate enough to charity.

BARRIER AGAINST BOOKS

A measure now pending in Congress is ingeniously devised to encourage ignorance, though its obvious intent is to benefit American publishers. It provides that no book in the English language may be imported into this country unless it proves impossible to have an edition of the work printed by an American publisher.

This would throw the burden of proof on whoever desired a foreign book. He could not buy it direct from the foreign publisher, as he can now. Always there would have to be an inquiry as to whether there was, or would be, any American edition. The practical result would be to close the American market against nearly every new book published in English anywhere else in the world, and against many standard works of literature and science for which there is not enough popular demand in America to justify American editions. Libraries, colleges and scientific men especially would suffer, along with every reader with a wide range of interests.

Surely it is not possible that a legislative body supposed to represent an enlightened country will put up such an absurd barrier against enlightenment from other lands.

The American publishers are already pretty well protected by copyright laws and the tariff on foreign books. The proposed law would hardly profit them in the long run. The book business grows by multiplying readers. Foreign books stimulate the demand for domestic editions of similar books.

Daylight Saving Needed Today

San Bernardino Sun

Daylight saving has added an hour to the recreational portion of the day for millions of people in cities in the east, while California, with its wonder climate and its countless places of charm, continues to delay the opening of its working day until the sun is high in the heavens. That hour lost in the morning is just an hour stolen from the restful portion of the declining day.

Under daylight saving twilight would continue in Southern California until, in June, for instance, approximately 8:30 o'clock. The day's work would end at 4 o'clock and there would remain five hours or more of daylight, and play.

California has refused daylight saving enactment on the theory that it should be a nation-wide movement. Otherwise there would be confusion because such important agencies as the railroads would not be able to set their clocks ahead an hour in some localities and not do the same in others.

But in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia—and many other large centers of population—there is local daylight saving, and the annual setting ahead of the clock was a joyous event last Saturday night. The advantages of the additional hour after the day's work is done more than compensates for the confusion incidental with agencies which do not follow the shift in the position of the hands of the clock. In some parts of the east passenger trains arrive—according to the clock—at stations even before they have left starting point. Apparently this confusion has been overcome by experience, for there is no doubt as to the popularity of daylight savings in communities which have adopted it.

There are only two states—Massachusetts and Rhode Island—which as a whole have established daylight saving. In New York, New Jersey, Maine, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Delaware, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan daylight saving is a matter of local option. In other words, communities within those states have the right to establish daylight saving if they desire.

The experience in these eastern states should prompt California to break away from its reticence occasioned by the desire for a nation-wide law. There will not be national daylight saving until congress is convinced the majority of the states desire it, and apparently there is only one way to make this demonstration and that is by various states to follow the lead of those of the east.

When a majority of the states have adopted daylight saving, or provided for local option on the subject, it is entirely reasonable to suppose that congress would end the confusion in time by adopting a law making the change universal and compulsory.

Wonderful Development Here

Fresno Republican

Granted these fundamentals of our American educational system, we can deal with the practical facts about the development of our public schools.

The very great pride which all citizens take in these schools is beyond question. That pride is the biggest asset they have.

Our pride is based on the fact that the schools as a whole have built up a professional spirit, a spirit for creative interest in the child, and has been very free from professional selfishness.

There has been a minimum of fads. Not utter freedom from them. Educators have their professional bursts of enthusiasm that carry them too far, and contrariwise they have to recognize and yield to local limitations of opinion.

But as a whole, the American school system has been freely accorded the leadership it has earned.

Today in California, our public educational system absorbs about half of the total amount of funds raised for public purposes. This money is distributed so that the child in the remotest mountain village gets nearly as good a chance for schooling as in the large cities. Local poverty does not reduce local school efficiency to any great degree. And the rural schools of California have been raised to a high plane. Nearly all the territory of Fresno county, for instance, is absorbed into "union school" boundaries, so that teaching is adapted to the particular needs of the child. The basic requirements of the older system of education—that the child shall be taught to think and to enable it to get the thinking of others—has been enlarged to give the child some reasonable help toward later vocational efficiency.

It is taught to think and also to some extent to earn. And this earning is not merely an opportunity to press into a few of the "politer" professions where thinking is the main earning tool, but into the broader opportunities of creative service, where hand and mind are coordinated in the production of wealth and economical handling of the powers of

OUTDOOR WALKING OF BENEFIT TO ALL

Primitive man got all the exercise which his body needed in obtaining food and in defending himself from savage beasts.

As civilization advanced and living conditions changed, specialization began and now there are an ever increasing number of people who get very little exercise in their daily tasks.

Without exercise certain muscles and organs of the body become weak and flabby and this condition reacts unfavorably on mental and bodily health and vigor.

The general increase in circulation resulting from exercise benefits all parts of the body. In every movement there is a destruction of certain cells of the body.

Nature replaces all such normal waste of tissue and usually adds a little more than was destroyed. That is why blacksmiths' arms, for example, are so well developed.

However, if too much exercise is taken there results a greater destruction of cell tissue than the forces of the body are able to replace and harm follows.

There should be a regular time of the day set aside for exercise. But before one engages in any kind of sport or exercise, it is best to have a physical examination made.

Because of the wholesome effects of sunshine and pure air, exercise is best taken out of doors. Walking is the simplest of out-door exercise. It can be enjoyed by everybody and it is often of great benefit.

For the average person in good health, a walk of from three to five miles is sufficient for a day's exercise. The rate of walking should be about three and a half miles per hour.

The body should be carried erect, the head up, the chin held well in, the abdomen in, the shoulders back and the chest fairly high. In striding keep the feet parallel, the toes pointing straight forward. The arms should swing freely from the shoulders.

The American publishers are already pretty well

Our Own Little Hydra

Backed by Advertising, Integrity Sure to Win

San Francisco Chronicle

The late J. P. Morgan once said there were men to whom he would lend a million without asking questions, because he believed in them. And there were others who could not borrow a dime on a government bond, because there surely would be something wrong with it.

Reputation is the best asset that a man or business can have and reputation is integrity that people know about.

Evidence to this effect is furnished by the experience of a corporation which recently announced revolutionary improvements in its products. At once, and before any deliveries were possible, the corporation was swamped by advance orders amounting to $20,000,000 at factory prices. Why did people thus "buy a pig in a poke"?

The concern operates in a field where competition is keen. The name of its product has become a household word, but persistent advertising has been and is needed to keep it in the public mind. And in the years during which the company has persistently advertised it has lived up to the letter of its advertising. So people believe in the integrity of the company and put down their money in that belief.

Integrity and advertising are a combination hard to beat. Integrity alone travels a long, slow road. Advertising clears the way.

Worth While Verse

THE LITTLE HIGH CHAIR

In an attic deserted, stowed safely away,
A Litt'l High Chair I discovered today,
In a dingy dark corner, with cobwebs o'ergrown—
But, who was its owner, is something unknown.

A round or two broken, a break from the seat,
The back partly patched up, and nowhere complete,
With the paint strangely tortured by patches quite bare,
Make lone and pathetic the little high chair.

The child who sat in it, I venture to say,
Is a tottering old man if he's living today;
What fields he has conquered, what prospects found fair,
No record or person is here to declare.

Yet, born with his youth, this one relic remains
From a far distant time, when life's contests and pains
Stood fair in abeyance, and naught could impair
The career that should start from the Little High Chair.

Did its subject tied up there, so proud on its throne,
Go out through the world a great power, or unknown?
Was the joy that youth promised fulfilled, or a snare?
No answer comes back from the Little High Chair.

The mother who cherished the child that it bore,
And all who once knew it have gone on before.

But a history of some sort, forbidding or fair,
Begins every day from some Little High Chair.

—Arthur C. Benson "The Reciter's Treasury of Verse."

AN IMPORTANT LOSS

It was his first motor car and it was her first ride in one. Accordingly, both had looked forward to this particular afternoon for some time previously. Everything went quite well until the return journey; then things began to happen.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the young man.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

"The engine's missing again," he replied between set teeth.

She looked appropriately distressed.

"Good gracious!" she cried in consternation. "Where did we drop it?"—Capper's Weekly.

McGuffey's Readers

Redlands Facts

There has been a great revival sorbed in the delights of the old line of school text-books known as the McGuffey's Electric Readers. Magazine articles have been written, which bring back fragrant memories to those of us whose education began and carried on for years under the moral and scholastic stimulus which came from this series of readers, in general use well through the nineteenth century.

A bit of local interest comes with the knowledge that a niece of the author, Dr. William Holmes McGuffey, was the first wife of Dr. A. W. King of Redlands, and Dr. King has a beautiful dauphine of her—she was a beautiful woman. Her maiden name was Jennie McGuffey, and she was the daughter of Dr. Henry McGuffey.

One article, speaking of this series of readers says: "To that generation which we speak of as the 'present' these readers form merely a faint voice of yesterday, a voice hardly distinguishable, echoing down a long and musty corridor. But to millions who conned their pages in schoolhouses from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, and eastward to the Atlantic, they are remembered as freshly and clearly as a fascinating novel that might have been closed regrettably at night." Indeed the writer of this remembers well how he used to sit abto the entire series was equally good. Certainly each reader was planned for the advancing child, from the First to the Sixth. But perhaps more remembered the Third Reader than any other, as minds had then matured sufficiently so that memory held on to the things therein contained.

Haste thee, schoolboy, haste away; Far too long has been thy stay; Often you have tarry been. Many a lesson you've not seen; Haste thee, schoolboy, haste away; Far too long has been thy stay.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By EDSON R. WAITE, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT the man who earns his money in the city where he lives and spends it in some other city is not a citizen.

THAT the man who sends his money away from home and then expects his home city to prosper is a candidate for the "Bug House" and the sooner he goes there the better off the home city will be.
